State Executive Takes Charge
Of Most Important
Legislation

By Associated Press

Madison—The formulation of a comprehensive tax program to be directly sponsored in the Wisconsin legislature by the administration is foreseen Wednesday with the announcement by Governor Blaine that he is taking Senator Henry Huber, chairman of the joint finance committee, to hold in his committee, the Dahl and Severson general income tax bills, the tax commission appropriation, the measures affecting increase in personal exemptions under the income tax and a bill to exempt homesteads from taxation.

Through this act the governor let it be known that he plans to actively lead the movement for readjustment of the tax burden in Wisconsin. He expects later to go before the finance committee or send a special message to the legislature explaining in detail his ideas on the problem of revenue raising. A bill covering the points emphasized by him, is to follow.

NOT SATISFIED

Governor Blaine is not satisfied with either the Dahl general income tax bill or the Severson surtax proposal. He intends to have measure more comprehensive in its scope, providing in addition to a new rate schedule, a raise in exemptions gained through a reduction in the lower rates on incomes, repeal of special mill taxes, exemption of homestead improvements from taxation, and a large appropriation to the tax commission for investigation of back income tax reports.

Preceding the definite announcement of his attitude on specific tax problems, the governor said that he planned to take the people of the state into his confidence with an explanation of the revenue situation as it confronts Wisconsin. Consideration of the income tax question involves at the same time consideration of the highway problem which ties up with the other revenue measures, the governor believes. With that view in mind he expects soon to make his position on highway legislation clear.

PLOT TO WIPE OUT
BRITISH CABINET
MEN LAID TO IRISHBonar Law Included Among Marked, Is Charge Against Republicans

By Associated Press

London—A sensational story of a plot by an Irish Republican organization to murder British cabinet ministers and commit other outrages is printed Wednesday by the other Sketch.

The newspaper connects the alleged scheme with the activities of Irishmen recently arrested in Great Britain. It says that the persons marked for assassination included Premier Bonar Law, David Lloyd George and Sir Hamar Greenwood.

A large number of women in the organization, the newspaper asserts, obtained employment in the households of the intended victims and thus became able to supply an outside person with details of the men's movements.

The conspirator's plans, according to the newspaper also provided for the creation of disturbances through the rougher elements in the larger cities.

Chicago Female
"Blue Beard" Is Given Life Term

By Associated Press

Chicago — A squat, middle-aged woman, Mrs. Tillie Klimek, Wednesday held a unique position in Chicago criminal history, being the only woman ever sentenced to life imprisonment in this county.

Mrs. Klimek's case was given to a jury Tuesday night and on the first ballot the question of guilt was established with four jurors voting for the death penalty. On the second ballot the 12 jurors agreed on life imprisonment. Mrs. Klimek was charged with the murder of her third husband, Frank Kupczyk, by poisoning.

Throughout the trial Mrs. Klimek, characterized by the state as a woman "blue faced" and still facing trial with a cousin, Mrs. Nellie Koulik, for conspiracy to murder her other three husbands and other relatives, remained calm. Even the jury's verdict failed to shake her composure.

VALLEY PAPER
MILLS BOOST
WAGES OF MENNew Scale Effective March 16
—Kimberly-Clark Adopts
Vacation Plan

A wage increase ranging from 8 to 12 per cent. general in most paper-mills of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and other Fox river valley cities, becomes effective on March 16. This is the first increase in pay since the cuts of a year or more ago.

Announcement also has been made a vacation plan adopted for employees of the Kimberly-Clark Co. who have service records of 15 years or more. Details of the plan were arranged at a meeting of the general mill council of the company at Neenah on Tuesday.

The council announced that 171 employees whose records of service is 15 years or more will be given vacations of one week with full pay this year. The largest number of men entitled to the rest period are at Kimberly where 75 are affected. The number in the company's other mills are: Niagara, 49; Neenah, Globe and Badger mills, 18; Atlas and Vulcan mills, 20; Niagara Falls, 10.

The vacation plan has been under discussion since last November and a committee had investigated plans used in other industries. This committee reported to the mill council at its meeting on Tuesday and final action followed.

MUSIC BUILDINGStructure Is Needed To Replace
Conservatory, Now Too
Small

Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, left Wednesday for New York on a business trip which may mean that Lawrence will have a new conservatory of music building in the very near future. The present school of music has outgrown its quarters and if it is possible for Dr. Plantz to obtain aid from certain funds set aside for the furthering of musical education, the building plans will be undertaken within a short time. It is understood, however, that the plans for the gymnasium will have to be well underway before a second building is started.

While in New York, Dr. Plantz will attend several meetings of college executives. He was called there by the meeting of the board of directors of the Association of American Colleges of which he is a member. He will be away more than a week.

ASSEMBLYMEN
REFUSE REPEAL
OF LIQUOR LAWSTucker Bill Indefinitely Postponed By a 46 To
39 Vote

By Associated Press

Madison—The wet forces in the Wisconsin legislature lost their fight to repeal the Severson prohibition enforcement statute Wednesday with the indefinite postponement by the assembly of the Tucker bill. This measure which would put an end to state liquor law enforcement was killed 46 to 39.

The call came after a half hour's debate enlivened by a brief exchange between Speaker Dahl and Assemblyman Prescott, Milwaukee.

PROTESTS "RAILROADING"

When the bill was read on the calendar, Speaker Dahl attempted to have the action recorded by a viva voce vote, and the vote had been taken before Assemblyman Frank Prescott, Milwaukee, gained the floor and heatedly accused Speaker Dahl of "trying to railroad" the bill to its death. The speaker demanded that the Milwaukee representative state what he wanted, and the latter replied he wanted an opportunity to discuss the bill and then wanted a roll call.

Mr. Prescott declared that "50 per cent of the members of the legislature were elected as the result of backing they received from wet organizations. He asked that the assembly 'play fair' with their constituents, and not let the bill pass."

"JUST SUPPORT IT,"

Assemblyman Matheson, leading the dries in their move to kill the bill, declared that the assembly was not dealing with a question involving the principle of prohibition but rather was determining whether "Wisconsin would aid the federal government in enforcement of a constitutional provision."

He declared that repeal of the law would leave moonshiners and bootleggers free to ply their trade at the expense of the state.

By defeating the Tucker bill, the dries put an end to the first big wet move of the session. The roll-call follows:

HOW THEY VOTED

For postponement—Barber, Caldwell, Cashman, Dahl, Dopp, Freehoff, Ganser, Goodman, Grubb, Grandine, Grimstad, Halverson, Hanson, of Pierce, Hanson of Dane, Hefty, Linkley, Hutchinson, Johnson of Crawford, Johnson of Burnett, Jones, Jung, Kamper, Keisner, Lawson, Liche, Matheson of LaCrosse, Moseley, Nelson of Polk, Nelson of Racine, Peltier, Berry, Price, Royce, Schlegel, Selter, Saugen, Schmidt of Trempleau, Shearer, Slack, Smith of Vernon, Smith of Ashland, Smead, Tuffley, Warden, Welch and Whelan.

Against postponement: Allen, Conway, Diringier, Duncan, Ever, Allen, Becker, Elsner, Engel, Eischele, Frederich, Gauer, Kamke, Keisner, Killian, Koch, Laffey, Lindahl, Meggers, Miller of Outagamie, Minier, Nauman, Nein, Oliver, Olson, Ott, Pederson of Marinette, Peterson of Milwaukee, Polavsky, Prescott, Ruffing, Schmidt of Clark, Schunpfe, Stoffel, Timman, Tucker, Weber, Woller, Ziener and Zittlow.

Paired—Blomberg, for indefinite postponement, Mark against.

RECALL WINS

Madison—An amendment to the state constitution to permit the popular recall of all elective officers in Wisconsin, including judges, was approved by the senate Wednesday with adoption of the Huber resolution 17 to 12.

Following is the roll call: For adoption—Barber, Bilgrien, Cashman, Casperson, Garey, Heck, Hirsch, Huber, Johnson, Kemp, Polakowski, Quick, Ridgway, Severson, Staudenmayer, Teasdale and Titus.

IN SENATE, AIM
OF PRESIDENTHarding Will Have Hard Time
To Pass Bills Unless He Can Stop Filibustering

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.
Fort Lauderdale, Fla.—Representative Mondell's statement that some revision of the senate rules is necessary to prevent a minority from overcoming the will of a majority is echoed with considerable enthusiasm by President Harding.

Fresh in the memory of the president is the fact that the merchant marine bill is one of the 144 bills which passed the house, but did not in the senate because of filibustering tactics.

Mr. Harding has been given the pledges of a majority of the members of the senate, who would have voted for the measure if given a chance. "Shall the people rule," is a familiar slogan in politics but it may come into use again in the next campaign unless something is done in the next senate.

WILSON HAD SAME TROUBLE

Mr. Wilson found himself embarrassed by the rules of unlimited debate in the senate and succeeded in persuading his party associates to put through a form of cloture which at the time was believed adequate. That revision of the rules has signally failed. It provided that whenever sixteen members of the senate signed a petition to end debate, the senate must take a vote on a motion to limit the time that each senator could talk before a vote had to be taken. But the same rule provided that two-thirds must approve to limit debate.

President Harding didn't have a two-thirds majority for the ship subsidy bill. Few bills ever have that much support unless they are absolutely non-partisan. So in order to get any legislation through, two-thirds of the senate must really consent to the legislation.

MAJORITY TO BE SCANT

Mr. Harding had his biggest party majority in the session of congress just ended. The Republicans will have a scant majority in both house and senate next time. Still it will be possible for them under house rules to put through party measures by adopting under the majority rule all motions to limit debate. In the

OPIUM LOST, STUDENTS
SUSPENDED, REINSTATED

Milwaukee—The investigation into the disappearance of a small piece of opium gum used in Marquette dental school laboratories ended Wednesday morning when Dr. H. L. Banzhaf, dean of the school and business manager of the university, issued a statement reinstating the 80 students suspended since Monday.

Dr. Banzhaf and members of the faculty are convinced that no particle of the crude opium was taken in intentionally, said R. G. Haukoil, secretary of the dental school Wednesday. Efforts by the faculty and students themselves to learn where the drug was lost have continued for several days.

The 80 students reinstated are members of the section to whom Dr. H. C. Russell, professor in whom dental medicine was lecturing when the opium was lost.

Charles F. Cramer, Former Vet-

Pronounced Suicide

Resigned From Bureau Following Investigation On Letting Contracts

By Associated Press

Washington—Charles F. Cramer, who resigned a few weeks ago, as general counsel for the veteran's bureau, was found dead here Wednesday and the police reported that he had committed suicide.

Mr. Cramer's body was found in his home here and his death the police said, apparently was due to self-inflicted wounds. He was 45. He came from San Francisco in 1921 to become general counsel of the bureau.

Except for a maid, according to the police story, Mr. Cramer was alone in the house when the shooting occurred. He had accompanied Mrs. Cramer to the Union station at midnight when the floor with a bullet in his brain, and then had returned home and locked the door. The police were summoned and when they broke the lock they found Mr. Cramer dead on the floor with a bullet in his brain. Mr. Cramer's resignation from the veterans bureau was accepted by Director Forbes shortly before he himself quit office in February and during the time when the bureau was under fire from members of congress and others who were demanding investigation of the conduct of the legal division and other agencies having to do with the placing of contracts for hospital construction. Since then such an investigation has been ordered by the senate and the ground work for it was laid Tuesday at a conference between Frank T. Hines, the new director and John T. Ryan, special counsel for the investigating committee.

The police found no message to explain his act, but his friends said that the nervous strain which had resulted from his connection with the bureau had undermined his health.

The house in which Mr. Cramer lived and in which his body was found was that occupied and owned by President Harding when he was a member of the senate. It was said to have been purchased by Mr. Cramer shortly after he came to Washington from California in 1921 to become head of the legal division of the bureau.

As general counsel Mr. Cramer passed on the many contracts which were made by the bureau during the past two years for the construction and rental of hospitals. Some months ago he and other bureau officials were publicly assailed by some officials of the American legion and members of congress.

Wisconsin Executive

Madison—Governor J. J. Blaine, Tuesday night scored Harry M. Daugherty, United States attorney general, for his refusal to make a survey of former service men incarcerated in federal prisons, to determine their mental and physical condition as suggested by the Wisconsin executive.

In a letter to cabinet officers, Governor Blaine said that "you decline to make the survey on the grounds that work as outlined if attempted in federal penitentiaries would require more time and assistance than is at the command of the department and for this reason, regret that it is impracticable."

"This most astounding, I am unwilling to believe," he added, "that you are willing to rest your refusal upon any such ground when I call to your attention that in all probability you have men who served in the late war suffering from mental and physical disability due to their service for their country and because of that mental condition they have come to their sad plight."

"You state that 'I regret to state it is impracticable.' You can have no such regret upon any such grounds. When the troops were on the tide, these men were heroes. Gassing, then mentally and physically. Then bombing and shell shocking have broken them because it is impracticable for you to bring relief. VILLAGE CONSIDERS BONDS TO PAY FOR WATER SYSTEM

Little Chute Board Meets March 23 To Decide On Bonds Issue

A final decision whether the village of Little Chute shall issue $120,000 bonds to finance construction of a waterworks system will be reached at a meeting of the village board on March 23. It was announced Tuesday following a meeting of the board. A waterworks system in the village has been under consideration for some time.

The assessed valuation of the city over the last five years averaged approximately $8,000,000 and the bonded indebtedness of the village is only $20,000.

It is proposed to issue $20,000 in municipal bonds and $100,000 in mortgage bonds, the latter probably being secured by the waterworks plant. The $20,000 municipal bonds and $20,000 mortgage bonds will be issued at once if it is decided to build the system.

READING CIRCLE FORMED AT CICERO

New Educational Organization Is Outgrowth Of Patrons Day

Parents and friends of the children who attend Sunny Valley school in District 2 in Cicero formed a reading circle after the program which was given for them at the school on patrons' day. R. C. Schultz was elected chairman of the circle, while Walter A. Blake was made treasurer and Miss Esther Bubolz, the teacher of the school, secretary. The circle will hold community programs at the school house and will award diplomas to its active members later. The name chosen for the new organization was the Sunny Valley School Patrons Reading circle.

The regular program of classes was conducted by Miss Bubolz on patrons' day but a few additional things were added to the program. A Mother Goose health play was put on by the grades and there were several spelling bees. Two debates took place. The girls debated the question, "Resolved, that telephones are better than electric lights." This was won by the affirmative team. Mabel L. Jeske and Anna Winters. The negative team included Hazel Wussow, Pearl Winters and Esther Thomas.

The negative team of the boys won on the question, "Resolved, that concrete sidewalks are better than stone sidewalks." The winning team included Emory Plankin and Harold Jeske, while the affirmative team was made up of Ray Wittuhn and George Wussow. The judges were R. C. Schultz, Neil Nelson, Walter A. Blake, Herbert Thiel and Theodore Rihm. The spelling contest for the upper grades was won by Mike Mildred Blake.

Miss Bubolz gave a short talk to the parents and friends of the school. Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Gosse, William Thomas, LaVern A. Brusewitz, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Schultz, Robert Winters, Walter A. Blake, Henry Court, Theodore Rihm, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thiel, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Nelson, Gilbert Jeske, Norman Plantikow, Ervin Plantikow, Mrs. William Jeske, Mrs. A. G. Mementos Of School Days Are Collected

If you chance to go into a home and to see a row of pictures of young boys and girls on the mantel, on the piano or on the bookcase, you may pretty safely say to the lady of the house: "So you have a youngster graduating from high school this year."

The annual exchange of senior pictures is at its peak at the high school and its peak is a high one. It is customary for the high school seniors to exchange pictures and the practice is becoming like a game with the object to see how many of the pictures of well known and popular students you can include on your list.

This is hard on the well known and popular students' pocketbooks or more properly on those of their parents. Almost any of the seniors will concede to you that the game has its rewards, however, and that each of them spend many hours in trying to puzzle out how to make the dozen or two dozen pictures which they have so far enough for all the requests.

LAABS TO ADDRESS UNIONS ON BRIDGES

Large Audience Expected At Trades And Labor Hall To Hear Alderman

Unusual interest is taken in the meeting of the Appleton Trades and Labor council Wednesday evening. Alderman A. W. Leake, who has been leading the fight in the common council for new bridges, will give an address at the meeting on the bridge situation. Every member of a labor union in the city has been invited to be present. Questions will be asked the speaker after his address. The meeting will then be thrown open for a discussion of whether bridges are needed and, if so, where they are needed.

A Word to the Wise

"In March I was called to the bedside of my sister in Browton, Alabama. She was given up to die and was almost dead. Talked in a whisper. Doctors said nothing but an operation would save her and she was too weak for that. Her color was yellow as a pumpkin, and she was filled with gas. That day I heard of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and went and got a bottle for her. In three weeks she was able to be about and walked a mile to church. I am praising your medicine to everyone." The Producers Announce---

The executive staff announces that only thirteen hundred and seventy-five seats will be sold for each night of the Fashion Pageant and Style Revue. After this number is seated—the doors will be closed.

This measure is taken for the comfort and safety of the audience. Should the demand for seats exceed the original expectations of the producers—additional performances will be given.

It is the desire of those in charge that each audience shall be comfortably seated to enjoy the long performance to its fullest. Unless these rules are strictly kept, the Chapel will be crowded beyond its capacity. Those who wait to buy seats at the door, run the risk of having to wait until Friday night to gain admittance.

Irish Ministers Prisoners Of Their Own Government

How will St. Patrick's Day, 1923, find Ireland? To answer this question, NEA Service and The Post-Crescent send Milton Bronner there. This is his second dispatch.

BY MILTON BRONNER
Dublin.—A government carrying on all the functions of a government, yet a government which has to keep itself behind barred doors in its own capital, this is one of the striking anomalies of the Irish Free State.

The circumstance is not due to lax government or to personal cowardice of government officials. It is due to the kind of war that is being carried on against it.

The Dublin police force is a splendid body of men which keeps order on the streets and regulates traffic with ease. The Irish Free State army under General Mulcahy is a well disciplined, well equipped organization of 30,000 men, the proof of whose energy is that about 8,000 irregulars are in prison.

GUERRILLA WARFARE
But the irregulars are elusive. They bob up near Cork one day, near Dublin or Wexford a few days later. They come out of the fog and vanish into the mist. The hillside know them and the waste places. And you can't tell who is an irregular.

At the request of the army there fore, the president and his cabinet are living under guard in government buildings. This is to prevent any further occurrences like the killing of Michael Collins.

FEAR UNDERGROUND MINES
Not only have the irregulars at times shot at the buildings but there are constant rumors of attempts to drive mines under the streets and the buildings.

The private residences of some of the cabinet members have been burned. Others have received threats. So far these have had little effect upon either the government ministers or the members of the Dail Eileann.

The only member who has resigned has been Dr. George Sigerson who is 85.

Dr. Sigerson, a famous physician was in the senate. He received a letter threatening to burn his property. He was quoted as saying he did not mind threats of assassination but threats to burn his home were a different matter because of the patients there.

"ORIELS" ORGANIZED
In addition to the open warfare in Dublin and throughout southern Ireland, there is a secret underground warfare.

The irregulars get their information through devoted women who give all their time to what they call the Republican cause.

To combat these, the Free State has set up a Criminal Investigation department popularly known as "Oriel House," because of the building in which it has its offices. The Oriel men have already established a reputation in Ireland similar to that of Scotland Yard in London. Owing to their activities tons of ammunition and masses of irregular literature have been confiscated.

TOMORROW: After suppression of rebellion, what faces the Irish Free State?

On the day of his marriage it (love) land to Ellen Louise Steinmetz (above) William (left) was arrested for speeding. Judge sentenced him to seven days in jail but allowed him to take his honeymoon before beginning to serve.

URG WADSWORTH AS NEXT LEADER OF U. S. SENATE

New York Toga Wearer Might Take Lodge's Place In Next Congress

Washington.—"Slim" Wadsworth, more sedately known as the Hon. James W. Wadsworth Jr., junior senator from New York, is being groomed to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts as majority leader of the Senate in the next Congress.

Wadsworth is 45, full of pep and pugnacity and a proven in the House. He looked upon as offering the party the fighting sort of leadership that will be needed and which may not, because of his years and (unimportant) limitations, be expected from Lodge. Lack of firm and stimulating leadership which is believed Wadsworth might give to handle successfully the party program of the past two sessions.

Wadsworth's biography in the Congressional directory gives his business as "live stock and farming." He is not, however, a member of the farm bloc. Western farm members look upon him rather as a "landed proprietor," who, when not in Washington lives on his 1100-acre estate near Genesee, N. Y. Farm blockers consider him rather as a "silk stocking" senator, his experience as manager of a big ranch at Palmdale, Tex., more the expert of a wealthy youth for title, and his present farming activities as a hobby.

They do recognize, however, that as a legislator he has both experience and tradition in his favor. His father, James W. Wadsworth Sr., preceded him as senator from New York. Young Jim himself broke into the New York Assembly at 25, was speaker at 29 and a United States senator at 38.

Having seen service in the Porto Rican campaign in the war with Spain, Wadsworth was assigned to the committee on Military Affairs when he came to the Senate in 1915. He is now chairman of that committee and as such has many prerogatives and much power. If he becomes Senate majority leader he may expect a program of adequate military preparedness.

At 25 Wadsworth married Miss Alice Hay, the daughter of the then secretary of state, John Hay. They have three children, one daughter and two sons.

Miss Wadsworth took an active part in the fight against suffrage heading the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. Senator Wadsworth voted against the suffrage amendment.

Wadsworth is fond of athletics. He does not play golf. He keeps a saddle house in Washington and rides frequently. Of summers he and Ted Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, take daily swims in the big testing tank at the navy yard. He is also a lover of ability and a devotee of baseball.

To the household sphere he sacrificed the symmetry of his good right hand. When he addresses the Senate it is noticeable, in his gestures that the forefinger of his speaking hand is buckled awkwardly at the first joint. It was busted by one hot off the bat when he was first sucker on the nine at St. Mark's prep school at Southboro, Mass.

The funeral was held at 10 o'clock Tuesday at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning from Riverside chapel and the services were in charge of the Rev. C. W. Cross.

SURGERY TOUCHING ONLY SURFACE IN GLAND OPERATIONS

Famous Surgeon Sees Chance
To Cure Many Crippled
Persons Thus

Pateron, N. J.—Monkey glands, says a new medical theory, are soon to be replacing worn out organs of the human body as a common practice, according to Dr. Edward B. Morgan, well known physician here.

In March he will attempt to restore a blind boy's sight by replacing his useless eye with one from a pig. Within ten years he expects such substitutions to become popular.

"The medical fraternity says Dr. Morgan, 'has just begun to open up the possibilities of the replacement of worn out human organs by corresponding parts from animals.'

'I am convinced that there are thousands of people walking in darkness who could be made to see by replacing their sightless eyes with pigs' eyes which, among the animals, most closely resemble the human eye. If the optic nerve has not been damaged I can see no reason why such an operation should not be successful.'

TRANSPLANTATIONS SUCCESSFUL.
'Glands and kidneys whose close counterparts can be readily found in animals should also be capable of substitution. In fact the substitution of monkey glands has already yielded beneficial results.'

'The operation which I am going to perform on Alfred Lemoine will restore his sight. One of his eyes has been totally destroyed, but the other has lately become opaque in the cornea. Back of the cornea the eye is perfectly normal.'

'As shown in the diagram, the cornea will be removed and replaced by the white of the eye of a little, so as to leave room for sewing on the new cornea. Then the corresponding organ will be taken from a chlorea formed pig, and attached to the boy's eye by six stitches. If the transplanted parts adhere—and I see no reason why it shouldn't—the boy will be able to see as well as ever.'

'I performed a similar operation some years ago on a woman but with only partial success. She was able to see all right for two years, but at the end of that time the transplanted cornea dropped off, caused by a diseased condition of the inferior eye. In the present case, I look for an absolute cure, as the boy's eye is perfectly healthy.'

OPERATES IN DINING ROOM.
While talking, Dr. Morgan was busy engaged in removing a tumor from a patient's eyelid.

The interview was in the dining room. The patient was resting in a dining room chair. The usual white fittings of an operating room were absent. Dr. Morgan was dressed in his business suit.

He does not believe in the modern trappings with which operations are now surrounded.

'Expensive bunk' is his characterization of them. For more than 10 years he has been successful without them.

STAGE RUBE ACT TO BOOST H. S. DEBATES

The debate teams of Appleton high school put on a stunt during the assembly period on Wednesday morning to advertise the debates which they will hold here and in Manitowish on Friday evening.

The teams were dressed in "rube" costumes of an ancient day and the debate was a spirited battle, the end of which was indicated by shots from a revolver which caused the girl member of the team to faint. The stunt will be repeated on Thursday for the freshmen class.

BRITAIN MERGES ALL RAILROADS INTO 4 SYSTEMS

Move Draws Commendation
Everywhere—Said To Be Good Example For U. S.

London.—Railroads of England, Wales and Scotland have just been amalgamated under the new railroad law into four great systems. Eighteen large and many small railroads are included.

The transfer and amalgamation took place Jan. 1. The entire work will be completed by July.

All Britain is lauding the new law claimed to be the most enlightened progressive and far-sighted bill ever passed by a modern state. Unlike the U. S. C. C. bill in the states, the British bill has drawn commendation from railroad owners, employees and users alike.

The bill was the direct outcome of England's experience during the war when the government took over the roads. It also aimed to compromise between owners who wanted complete control of their property and idealists who wanted the roads nationalized.

NO WASTEFUL COMPETITION.
As passed by Parliament the bill was designed to eliminate wasteful competition—cost of which had to be paid by the consumer—and to give control so as to provide for economy, good service and cheapness.

High spot provisions of the bill: Rates—To regulate both passenger and freight rates, there is a rates tribunal composed of a lawyer chair man, an expert representing the rail ways, and an expert representing the business men. The main function is from time to time to fix the standard charges. The standard revenue for each railway group is to be taken as the sum of its actual net revenues for 1913.

The standard charges are to be fixed so as to enable each group railway to earn this standard revenue plus five per cent on capital that may have been expended since 1913. But receipt of this net revenue depends upon the efficiency and service given. If earnings exceed the standard revenue, one-fifth of the excess is to go to the companies and four-fifths back to the public either in reduced charges or improved facilities.

Labor relations—Each railway is to have one or more councils consisting of company and employee representatives. Under this arrangement one railway council and not more than five sectional railway councils, with local departmental committees for the discussion of local matters have been set up for each railway group. They consider matters of rates of pay, hours of duty and conditions of service and hundred subjects.

Wages—Two tribunals are set up. First the Central Wages Board with appeal available to the National Wages Board. The Central Wages Board is made up of eight representatives of the companies and eight employees, four being named by the National Union of Railwaymen, two by the Society of Engineers and Firemen and two by the Railway Clerks Association.

The National Wages Board is made up of six representatives of the rail senate that some Republican majority will be largely theoretical for some of the western Republicans already have shown that they care very little about administration measures or party solidarity.

HARDING SEEKING TO LIMIT DEBATE

Only by a revision of the rules to permit a majority to adopt a motion to limit debate can the Harding administration hope to get through any of the important measures it may sponsor in the next two years. It was by a popular campaign against Cynicism and the arbitrary character of the house rules that a change was made in the lower house and there are those in the president's party who believe the time is ripe for another appeal to public sentiment to bring about a change in the senate.

As matters stand now six or an even smaller group can block action by the senate on any measure they oppose simply by using up the time in debate in delay. And one more thing, a third of the senate can always prevent the passage of a motion by the remainder of the senate to limit debate.

Committee Meets

A meeting of the executive committee of One-Unionism post of the American Legion is to be held at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening with dinner served in the French room of the hotel. The independence day celebration will be discussed in detail.

Brushes and Bristle Goods

—Soon to Cost More

That's just a friendly tip. China and Japan—where most brushes and bristle goods come from—have made sudden radical advances in the price of both raw and finished bristle material. American Importers and Manufacturers are now doing the same. This does not mean that brushes will be better. It means that you will soon be paying more for anything you buy in which bristles play an important part.

Look over your tooth brush, the condition of your hair brush and clothes brush. This store is protecting you against these advances now. That is part of our service.

BUY NOW WHILE PRICES ARE LOW

A. A. L. GAINS 434 MEMBERS IN MONTH

Even though February was a month of few days, the Aid Association for Lutherans kept up its stride of growth. The report presented at the meeting of the board of trustees Tuesday showed an addition of 434 members who subscribed for insurance amounting to $487.75.

A meeting of the building committee is to be held on March 19 at which odds and ends of the office building project will be adjusted and a final decision made by the architects, Parkinson and Dockendorff, La Crosse.

CENTER VALLEY MEN TO HEAR GRABER ON ALFALFA

The Center Valley Cooperative Livestock association will have a meeting at Twelve Corners, March 20. Prof. L. F. Graber of the agricultural college at Madison will speak at the meeting. The members believe more alfalfa should be grown in the state and the purpose of the meeting is to arouse a stronger interest on the part of the farmers in raising alfalfa.

FARMERS' INSTITUTES

(By Senator Timothy Burke)

Farmers' institutes should not be abolished. They are schools of instruction for that class of our business world which is mostly vital to all. Food is an absolute necessity, and the fertile acreage of the earth is limited. The producing of food is not only a business proposition but one of universal necessity. When it is borne in mind that the average person must have food at least every five hours during the waking period, the objective to produce sufficient food becomes apparent. The tillers of the soil have a duty to perform and also a profit to make, both are conceded without question.

Education, which increases the volume of food at its minimum cost with a profit to the producer, is likewise a benefit to the consumer, which includes all humanity. Agricultural education can to a large extent be transmitted through the medium of bulletins issued by both national and state departments of and through the usual agricultural newspaper. However, education without discussion in many instances fails to fully illustrate the essentials of thought and action, hence, the school or institute.

In the past, breeding, feeding, fertilization of soil, rotation of crops, eradication of foul weeds, farm buildings and many other like subjects have been greatly advanced through the medium of the so-called institute. These are the common schools of the farmer. To now say that they are no longer necessary will lead to the inference that agriculture has arrived at the pinnacle of development and the goal of perfection after centuries has been reached.

Conditions, however, do not bear out such a conclusion. By increased fertilization production can be nearly doubled with the same amount of labor and the same cost. It costs no more to raise a pure bred calf than it does a low grade animal. Both must be very well fed in order to prosper, but the former starts out with breeding to its advantage. It therefore follows as a natural consequence that it costs no more to cultivate and seed an acre of land which produces 50 and 60 bushels of oats per acre than it does to cultivate the acre which produces only 30 bushels.

But there is much to be learned yet in farming. Too much acreage is cultivated which should be used as pasture land until fertilized. Furthermore, considerable acreage is broken up and sown to small grains without proper drainage, thereby entailing a loss of seed and labor to the tiller, bringing forth in harvest time hardly the amount of seed sown.

The dairy industry in this state, is another phase of the situation in which there is an annual loss of millions growing out of lack of proper care in the manufacture of butter; more than one half of Wisconsin's output of butter is second grade, and of the balance probably two-fifths is third grade, leaving only about 30 per cent of the whole, a high grade product. The reason for this is that butter in most instances is no better than the poorest product which goes into the churn. Cream is gathered promiscuously from patrons giving sanitary and careful care, as well as from those whose cream is separated by a machine, which probably has gone several days without having been scalded, and then the cream is left in surroundings which further add to its contamination, awaiting only to be dumped in with high grade sweet cream, thereby reducing the entire amount to a second grade product.

In this manner, millions of dollars are lost to the farmers of Wisconsin each year and Wisconsin butter is not in the class where it should belong. The separator has supplanted the "deep setting" cream, but neither man nor nature has yet improved on butter made from cream taken from those deep, small cans which stood for a day in a tank of ice cold water.

Surface drainage tiling and care of dairy products are fertile fields for future development. In the meantime Wisconsin is only in its infancy in agricultural development.

COMMERCE AND HUMAN IDEALS

In the public discussion between Ambassador Harvey and the Earl of Balfour on the British debt to America, the subject of commercialism has been forced directly into the foreground. Balfour retorts to Mr. Harvey that "I for one take less of a commercial view of the deal." Balfour has said that Great Britain had negotiated war loans with the United States for other nations, and that our government had insisted in substance, if not in form, on British security. Mr. Harvey denied that we had asked for guarantees, and Balfour reiterates his statement.

When it is better to take the commercial view, or when the humanitarian, is one of the most difficult of all doubts to clarify. Commerce has played a great part in human progress as it has brought peoples of different races, colors and creed into business relationship, and has spread ideas of liberty everywhere. Commerce has been one of the most valuable, one of the most influential and effective, forces of civilization. On the other hand, commerce has been the cause of many wars and much retrogression. Allied with politics and capital, it has shown greed and rapacity, and has started wars and taken the bloodstained spoils of conflict.

Were it possible for all statesmen to consider the great economic and political troubles of the world from "less of a commercial view" for a while commerce would derive as much benefit as humanity from the arrangement which could and would be made. It is strange that the materialized view should be taken by most governments and statesmen after a war with the highest ideals as its inspiration. The spirit of mercy should vie with the sense of justice in order to bring about adjustments which are necessary to restoration of normal conditions. Sacrifices must be exchanged by the leading nations, and compromises are imperative.

But it would be too much to expect the governments of worried nations to come to the kindly point of view quickly. It is natural that they should first try to secure all the advantages or gain within their reach. Europe's situation can be settled only by "less of a commercial view."

THE NON-VOTER AND THE FEDERAL BLOCS

In an address to a large audience in Ohio State university, Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago accused the non-voter of being the "greatest grafter in politics," accepting the benefits of government, yet assuming none of the responsibilities. On the other hand, he partially excused the evasion by explaining that the formation of powerful self-interest blocs in Washington has had the effect of quenching party zeal.

Prof. Merriam made the assertion that neither of the two great parties could apply any policy or enact any legislation which these blocs, representing special groups, did not approve. Parties are requisite to the sound operation of representative government. On the other hand, groups not only tend to dismember each of these great voter's organizations, but their motives and influence, being selfish, are detrimental to equitable, efficient, economical government.

Nevertheless, the fault of the citizen of failing to vote cannot be condoned, as it passively strengthens and encourages bloc legislation. In fact, the duty of the citizen to take an interest in his party and to vote is more urgent than normally, for he can, by experiencing his most precious right, overcome the mercenary supremacy of selfish combinations. Prof. Merriam indicated that less than half of the 54,000,000 citizens eligible to vote voted in the last election. Is not this apathy to blame for governmental discouragements and for the power and effrontery of groups seeking selfish gain and privilege?

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

SIXTY TO SIXTY-EIGHT

If any fuel is being conserved in the present fuel famine, there is one thing certain: the other fellow is conserving it. Enter any store, business office or home in the famine district and you will probably find the thermometer registering the usual extreme of tropical warmth and desert aridity, and the inmates wondering what ails them.

There is no use trying to argue that folks should not keep nice and warm, for keeping warm is one of man's most primitive instincts. To advise people not to keep warm would be quite as silly as to advise them not to expose themselves to cold. It might be all right to advise an imbecile to be careful not to expose himself to cold, although he probably wouldn't know enough to heed such advice. I suspect some health officers assume that ours is a community of imbeciles.

It would pay employers of office, shop or factory workers to detail one individual to act as humidity monitor for the shop, some one to keep close tab on the thermometers—good, accurate, mercury thermometers placed here and there in the shop—and to see to it that the humidity never shall fall below the danger point.

Of course a thermometer doesn't indicate humidity but nevertheless it affords a pretty fair means of gauging the humidity indoors. With a few exceptions, such as laundries and swimming pools, it may be taken as the rule that when the temperature in an artificially heated room rises above 68 degrees F. the humidity—well, when the mercury soars there ain't goin' to be any humidity to speak of, and that is one reason why such atmosphere depresses everybody in the room physically and mentally. A humidity monitor should keep the room temperature between 60 and 64 degrees F. where workers are doing active physical work, and between 65 and 68 degrees F. in office rooms where nobody ever works but just sits and thinks or talks or writes or otherwise passes the time.

The humidity monitor should throw open the windows whenever the temperature hovers around the danger point. Old maids of either sex might call him a humidity monster for this, but it is the healthful way and the only way to avoid the very real danger of excessive humidity.

Just what is that danger? I can't define it in a word. It is clear enough in my own mind, however. It means susceptibility to all of the respiratory infections, and that means most of the ills which people have in the low indoor humidity season. When misguided coddlers speak, so positively and obstinately, of their tendency toward chilling on trifling exposure, they are unconsciously confessing an injury from low humidity, that is, the result of overheating the air they breathe. Likewise when unenlightened parents complain of the constant nose or throat troubles of their coddled children, they express an injury from low humidity when an excessive indoor heat.

Accurate thermometers are good for the health, if you know how to use them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Advice About Tapeworm

Kindly advise me about the symptoms of tapeworm and the best means of destroying same.—M. P.

Answer—Pay no attention to the symptoms. That is one way to discourage a tapeworm. If the parasite sits still and does no harm, it is of no consequence to a physician. As a general rule, treatment of a tapeworm is present, the host suffers no serious effects, and as an equally general rule when an individual imagines he harbors a tapeworm he doesn't.

Nerve Food

What foods contain nourishment for the nerves?—H. S. O.

Answer—No particular food or foods can be considered to feed the nerves. Nor can any particular food be correctly called a muscle food, a blood food, a brain food or a bone food. Material for the nourishment and building of all these parts of the body is derived from all kinds of wholesome food. (Copyright, National Newspaper Service.)

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, March 16, 1898

H. J. Shifer of Boone, Iowa, was visiting his family. Dr. W. F. Gary of Neenah left for Klondike, Alaska, on a several month's absence.

George Potts was in Chicago on business connected with his pasteurized milk business. Trade among the eastern papermills was reported to be increasing to such an extent that the manufacturers were calling in their salesmen. Fox River Valley papermills had more orders than they could fill.

Dr. W. H. Chilson was to conclude his series of talks on the campaign of Vicksburg at the meeting of the George D. Eggleston Post, G. A. R., the following Friday evening.

The Union Toy company received an order for 60 dozen baby swings from a wholesale firm of Amsterdam, Holland.

The senate committee on foreign relations agreed to recommend that Hawaii be annexed by legislation in open session. In the senate later Senator Davis presented a joint resolution providing for annexation.

Oscar Thilmann of Kaukauna accepted the plans of C. B. Pride for a new addition to his paper mill. The building was to be constructed of stone and was to be 30 by 143 feet in size.

Dr. Emil Erb, who was having trouble with his eyes, was being treated by a Milwaukee specialist.

TEN YEARS AGO

Wednesday, March 12, 1913

Franklin T. Smith of Milwaukee visited Appleton friends. Fred Leopold of Hortonville was in Appleton on business.

William Van Nortwick returned from a several days' visit to Chicago. Mrs. Bertin Ramsey left for New York on a two weeks' visit with her daughters.

Thad S. Chilson of Minneapolis, formerly of Appleton, called on relatives and friends.

There was to be no appointment of a chief of police to succeed F. W. Hofer according to an announcement of police and fire commission which met at the city hall.

The ladies of the J. T. Reeve circle of the G. A. R. were entertained the evening previous at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell at Kaukauna.

The new officers of the Loyal Order of Moose were: Dictator, Frank J. Foreman; vice dictator, William Bonini; prelate, Walter T. Hughes; secretary, Robert F. McGilgan; treasurer, Robert Zuehlke; trustees, George Lausman, Louis Kaufman and Michael O'Connor.

Forty men were at work opening ditches and freezing manholes to let the water-resisting from the rapidly disappearing snow make its way to the river.

All owners of valuable dogs were advised to muzzle them before they fell into the hands of the police department.

New Record In Tree Planting Made This Year

BY HARRY HUNT

Washington—All tree planting records are to be smashed this year, according to President Charles L. Pack of the American Tree Association. "Tree planting," says Pack, "has taken many new phases, from single trees to avenues and forests. The memorial idea has grown until now memorial avenues, roads of remembrance and memorial forests are being planted."

The Rock Island Railroad is starting a tree planting campaign—in 12 states.

The Liberty Insurance Bank has given 3000 trees to Louisville citizens, to be planted there. "The South Eastern Council of Adarated Club Women has turned its attention to beautifying the Bankhead Highway, through Alabama and Florida, with the idea of making it a road of remembrance in honor of the Alabama senator who obtained passage of the first bill for federal co-operation in road building."

"California leads in roadside tree planting. But in Minnesota 30,000 trees will be placed along state highways this year."

But of greatest influence, Pack says, is individual interest in the work. To stimulate it, the tree association will present to each person—boy, girl or adult—who registers the planting of a tree, or more, this year, a free certificate of membership.

Keen school competition is reported with the Boonville (N. Y.) high school, which has planted 100 white pines, leading.

The town forest idea is popular in some sections, especially in New York, where many towns are planting thousands of trees this spring.

In Virginia, the Co-Operative Educational Association plans a big Arbor week, working through 1600 community leagues.

"If you are a good citizen and want to be a better one," urges Pack, plant a tree this spring. Ten, twenty or fifty years hence it will look more better than a lot of words carved on a tombstone."

Small Pay For French Actors

(From The London Mail, Continental Edition.)

The Theatre Francaise, the state subsidized home of French dramatic art, has, it is generally admitted, the most homogeneous and talented stock company of any theater in the world. To become a "societaire" of the Comedie-Francaise was at one time the ambition of every French actor and actress. But of late years things have changed and more than one talented artist has broken away from the Comedie-Francaise because he found that while he certainly had the "honor and glory" attaching to the part, wealth was left for his colleagues who played at the Boulevard theaters.

The Comedie-Francaise is run on what may be called a profit sharing system which was drawn up by the great Napoleon himself. Each "societaire" receives so many shares of the profits plus certain other perquisites and emoluments and a pension at the end of his service. But notwithstanding all this the actors of the Comedie-Francaise are very modestly paid. An English musical comedy star would turn up his nose at their earnings for some of them earn more in a month than do their French colleagues in a year.

Since 1914 lengthy leaves of absence have been granted the actors to allow them to go on tour and thus earn extra money. This system, however, has aroused criticism because it meant that the principal exponent of a particular role has perhaps by his absence stopped the run of a successful play. At present the minister of public instruction, who is responsible for the theater, is studying a new set of rules which it is hoped will give the troupe of the theater Francaise greater and easier scope for going on tour without impairing the homogeneous nature of the cast that is so very laudable desire to improve their financial status.

Just Beginning To Use City Parks

(From Parks and Recreation.)

The number of uses to which many parks are now being put were undreamed of a decade or so ago. Then a park was merely a bit of country set down in the city, a cool green place in which to walk and rest. There were trees, grass and shaded walks. It was never thought of for a moment that a park might one day be used as a camping place.

And yet this is just what St. Louis did. Forest park was the one cool place available in the summer as a refuge from the blazing pavements and crowded narrow canyons in the congested districts of the city. Harassed mothers flocked to it with pale babies, limp from the heat. Children played under the trees on the cool grass. But when night came, more oppressive than noon, all the benefits of a fairly comfortable place were obliterated by a return to the stuffy, airless rooms that they called "home."

So the city put tents in the park, away off in the trees out of sight of passing motorists, and needy families recommended by social organizations are now allowed to spend the hot nights under the swaying branches and the stars. Sanitary conveniences and a well equipped playground have been installed, a matron, cots and cooking utensils were furnished by the local Red Cross and the common kitchen is conducted under the auspices of the Community Kitchen club.

The Palisades Interstate park in New York and New Jersey is a vacation park on a much larger scale. In Omaha a park very near the city has been set aside as an outing spot for the organized playground boys over 12 years of age.

Denver has taken the lead in providing accommodations for travelers. Besides camping parks within the city limits she has equipped places all along the road extending to the crest of the Continental divide, 50 miles away, where she plays hostess to motorists. Through the Denver Playground association, the Boy Scouts, the Campfire Girls and kindred associations, hundreds of Denver children have been taken on camping trips through the mountains.

The idea of making a broader and more social use of parks seems to be spreading rapidly—and that is the best possible proof of its worth and desirability.

standing all this the actors of the Comedie-Francaise are very modestly paid. An English musical comedy star would turn up his nose at their earnings for some of them earn more in a month than do their French colleagues in a year.

Since 1914 lengthy leaves of absence have been granted the actors to allow them to go on tour and thus earn extra money. This system, however, has aroused criticism because it meant that the principal exponent of a particular role has perhaps by his absence stopped the run of a successful play. Q. Is it unwholesome for children to eat snow? C. P.

A. The U. S. Public Health Service says that snow falling to the ground is the purest form of water known. It is only after it is stepped on or contaminated by hand-lime that it becomes dangerous. Care should be taken to let children eat only a moderate quantity of newly fallen snow as there is a possibility of chilling the stomach. Do not handle the snow in collecting it as food. Collect it in a dish. Adding a small amount of whipped cream and sugar makes a dessert that children consider a treat.

Q. Was the famous Italian medium Palladino ever exposed as a fraud? N. A. B.

A. Despite the fact that it was proved that Palladino practiced fraud at times, the supernatural character of certain physical phenomena which occurred in her presence has never been explained. It is said of her that for over 20 years she remained an unsolved puzzle and defied solution at the hands of many skeptical investigators.

Q. Can one go direct from Paris to Bucharest without change? T. L.

A. The Orient Express makes the trip without change, in 3 nights and 2 days.

Q. How is "Sinala" pronounced? A. I. D.

A. The name of this famous Roumanian resort where the King and Queen are often in residence, is pronounced as if spelled Sin-ah-yah, and accented on the second syllable.

Q. Is the sun nearer the earth in winter or summer? Q. W. S.

A. The sun is approximately 2,600,000 miles nearer the earth on January 1st than on July 1st.

Q. What per cent of efficiency is developed by water turbines, that is how much water makes power and how much goes through the turbine without making power? E. M. L.

A. Water turbines develop about 75 per cent efficiency for small turbines and a higher per cent for larger ones.

Q. When was the National Geographic Society started? E. L. A.

A. It was organized 43 years ago. Q. Which was the largest city in the United States during Washington's presidency and how many cities had a population of at least 5,000? A. M. W.

A. In 1790 New York City was the largest city in the Union. Its population was 49,401. Other cities having a population of over 5,000 were Baltimore; Boston; Charleston, South Carolina; Philadelphia; Providence, Rhode Island; and Salem, Massachusetts.

Q. Is it true that Pasadena, California, was established by Indiana people? N. M.

A. Pasadena was settled by Spaniards in 1771. In 1873 a colony from Indianapolis settled there and began raising fruit and in 1886 the city was chartered.

Q. What was the biggest flock of birds ever known? M. E.

A. There are no statistics from which to give a definite answer to the question. Audubon once computed that a continuous stream of carrier pigeons observed by him included more than 1,100,000,000 birds. Wilson similarly calculated that a flock observed by him was 240 miles long and numbered 2,230,272,000 pigeons.

Q. Why are channel buoys marked red and black? D. B. L.

A. In the United States it is prescribed by law that the buoys be painted red on the starboard hand coming in from sea, and black on the port or left hand side. They are also numbered in order from seaward, with even numbers on the starboard and odd numbers on the port hand.

Q. Is China the most densely populated country? C. P.

A. While China has the largest population it also has the largest area. Its 428,000,000 people, if evenly distributed would number 99.96 to the square mile. Belgium, the most densely populated country, averages 566.22 inhabitants to the square mile.

Q. In the study of aeronautics, what birds are observed? C. J. B.

A. The buzzard and the albatross are both being studied. The albatross is the superior since he has a wing loading of more than three pounds a square foot of wing surface as compared with little more than half a pound a square foot in the matter of the buzzard.

Q. What are Calas? R. A.

A. A Calas is a kind of rice cake well known in the French Quarter of New Orleans. It is a batter cake which has been raised with yeast and fried in deep fat. Calas are eaten with the morning cup of cafe au lait.

Q. What will take away the bluish look on a mahogany piano? O. T. A.

A. The bluish haze that is often noticed on a polished varnish surface, is merely the accumulation left by moisture and dust from the atmosphere. It is called "blooming" and may be washed off with a damp cloth of soft material, wrung out of tepid water in which a little pure soap may be used, or a few drops of olive oil may be put on the cloth. Wipe off with a soft dry cloth or clean chamol.

FEW CANDIDATES SEEKING OFFICE IN APRIL VOTING

Most Aldermanic Candidates Will Be Unopposed In Spring Election

Kaukauna—With only a week and one day remaining for candidates for municipal offices to take out nomination papers, circulate them and file them with the city clerk, it looks as though there won't be much opposition to those who hold office at present. Only four aldermen have applied for nomination papers and another member of the council has declared his intention of doing so before it is too late.

Oswald Berendt, first ward; W. H. Cooper, second ward; Fred Wiggers, third ward and H. C. Wittman, fifth ward, are the only men who have entered the race thus far. Alderman John T. Timers probably will be a candidate for reelection in the fourth ward. Still another man must be elected in the second ward to take the place of Otto Hass, who now is a resident of the first ward.

Three members of the board of education must be elected because the one year terms of Mrs. John Regenfuss, Louis F. Nelson and Edward Grebe have expired. Election of justices of the peace also is part of this year's election program.

All nomination papers must be filed with L. C. Wolf, city clerk, before Wednesday, March 22.

5-Year-Old-Girl Is Featured In Music Recital

Kaukauna—Miss Norma Look will present her music students in recital at 7:30 Friday evening, March 16 in First Congregational church of Kaukauna. She will be assisted by Marjorie Cass, reader and Naomi Becker, violinist. Those who will appear in the recital are Mabel Look, Naomi Becker, Isla Holt, Thelma Becker, Dorothy Gehr, Mary Boyd, Dorothy Trams, Marjorie Cass, Esther Buerth, Carol Wolfson and Dorothy Look.

The last musician named is only five years of age and has attracted attention by her musical ability. She has appeared several times on programs in this city and once in Appleton. She will play two numbers entitled "Arrival of the Brownies" and "American Beauty" the latter of which is a simple melody of her own composition.

FORMER KAUKAUNA MAN IS DEAD IN GREEN BAY

Kaukauna—William Blair, 85, died Monday morning in a hospital in Green Bay after a long illness. The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in Green Bay. Mr. Blair lived here about 35 years. He moved to Green Bay about a year ago. Decedent is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John Hoberg, Green Bay; three sons, Edward, Roundup, Mont; Charles, San Francisco, Calif.; William, Green Bay. He was a member of the Kaukauna council, Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin and of the Holy Name society of St. Mary church.

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO GET-TOGETHER SUPPER

Kaukauna—A get together supper for the public will be held at 6:15 Wednesday evening in Epworth home of Methodist church in honor of the anniversary of the founding of the "Womans' Foreign Missionary society." The program will be called a "Boston Tea party" because the society originated in that city. Miss Esther Miller of Appleton will give a talk on work among children. Music will be furnished by the male quartet.

Guests will bring their own lunch but beans and coffee will be furnished by the society. Several toasts will be given.

CONTRACT FOR MARBLE FIXTURES FOR SCHOOL

Kaukauna—Parkinson and Dockendorf, architects, who drew plans for the new high school, have been authorized to enter into contract for the installation of marble fixtures in certain rooms of the new building. A telegram notifying the architects to proceed was sent Tuesday. Sealed bids were submitted some time ago when the plans first called for the marble fixtures. At that time the Breitster Marble Co. of Milwaukee, offered the lowest bid and that company will be given the contract now.

Original specifications were changed to call for a certain cement mixture to take the place of marble but it was finally decided by the board of education that to install marble now will save money in the end. Consequently, a committee representing the board petitioned the council for an additional $8,000 to complete the work. The total amount of the contract will be $3,140.

MERCHANTS GET READY TO MOVE

Sale Of Building Necessitates Several Business Changes

Kaukauna—A really transfer has been recorded in the court house at Appleton which will cause several local merchants to move early in the spring. E. A. Kalupa has purchased the building at present occupied by the Avenue Grocery Co. on corner of Main-ave. and Sixth-st. The store which is being managed by N. M. Haupt, will be moved to the former Julius J. Martens Co. store on Second-st. as soon as that building is ready for occupancy. Mr. Kalupa will open a bakery shop in his new location as soon as necessary remodeling can be done.

The new home of the Farmers and Merchants bank is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected it will be occupied by April 1. The change will leave a vacant building on Main-ave. It is practically certain that another local business man will occupy the store adjacent to the new bank which has also been rebuilt. That change will leave still another store building vacant on the south side. The third change will be made when Adam Schneider moves his barber shop from Third-st. to its new home on Main-ave, directly back of the new Farmers and Merchants bank.

Social Whirl In New London

New London—An unusually interesting program was enjoyed by the members of the Civic League Monday evening. Mrs. M. L. P. Smith read a paper on "American Citizenship." Mrs. Boland spoke on "Citizenship day" and Mrs. Abrams on "Neighborhood day." Plans are being made for a county neighborhood day to be held here in May.

Use this to Stop Neuritis Pain

No matter where your pain is located—in the back, shoulders, arms, legs or joints—you can get relief without taking anything to deaden nerves.

Most people do not know that sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, bad teeth, colds and other ailments often end up in neuritis or nerve inflammation.

The quickest way to reach the diseased nerves is by absorption. That's where Tysmol gets in its work. Tysmol is applied over the spot where you feel the pain, and is taken up through the pores of the skin. It soothes and heals the inflamed nerves, helping to restore them to healthy condition.

Tysmol contains no dope—no poison. Absolutely harmless. Get a good supply of Tysmol from Schlitz Bros. Co. or any reliable druggist. Price $1. Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter-st., San Francisco, adv.

Parents day was fittingly observed in the rural schools in this community Thursday. In district number 2, Hortonville at least one, if not more members from every family in the district was present. Reviews of the lessons were held, and another feature was an old-fashioned spell-down. The afternoon proved so beneficial and entertaining to all that the suggestion was given to hold a meeting of this kind once a month instead of once a year. This gives the parents an opportunity to see just what their children are doing in school work; and to enjoy a social time with their friends and neighbors.

Miss Elizabeth Crane is the teacher. Arthur Moos of Clintonville visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moos Sunday.

Miss Tena Burk, librarian, visited the libraries at Neenah and Appleton one day last week.

Robert Messmer of Milwaukee visited relatives here Sunday. Mrs. Messmer who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. M. Schulz and other relatives for the past three weeks, accompanied him home Sunday evening.

HENRY SCHAEFER DIES SUDDENLY

Veteran Milwaukee Fireman Dies In Retirement At Hortonville

Special to Post-Crescent
Hortonville—Henry Schaefer, 63, former Milwaukee fireman, a trustee of the village board and chairman of the library board, died suddenly Tuesday at his home of heart disease. Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Mr. Schaefer was born at Richfield, Sept. 10, 1859. He was educated in Appleton schools and served as a member of the volunteer fire department of that city while he lived there. He was married Dec. 24, 1883 to Melissa Clark at Hortonville.

The decedent then went to Milwaukee, where he served for 23 years as an engineer of the fire department. He was pensioned by the Milwaukee department upon his retirement in 1914, when he moved to Hortonville to live.

Mr. Schaefer is survived by his widow; one son, Theodore, Milwaukee, and two sisters. He was a brother of Mrs. Burt Harper of Appleton, deceased.

John Kueen Gets Birth On Eastern Team—Child Hurt At New London

New London—John Kueen leaves Saturday for Portsmouth, Va., to become a member of the baseball team of that city in the Virginia State League. He has been one of the standbys of the New London team.

John Knapstein's three-year-old son, David, fell on the ice Monday and cut his forehead quite severely, just above the eye. Three stitches were necessary.

Hazel Bessett, daughter of Eugene Bessett, and Charles Burton's son, John submitted to minor throat operations Saturday.

While Royce Locke of Shiocton, was riding Monday his horse slipped and the rider's leg was broken.

Charles Moos is very ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennison Hill are the parents of a son born this week and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lippert are the parents of a daughter.

Mrs. George Lonkey of Shiocton, was a business visitor here Monday.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is the Cause of Indigestion

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation; then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases, which inflame the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive acids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while it is effervescent, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results. adv.

FIRST HIGH SCHOOL DEBATES TO OCCUR FRIDAY EVENING

East Green Bay Team Will Argue Coal Mine Question With Team Here

Appleton high school debate teams will take part in their first contests on Friday evening. The affirmative team will meet the East Green Bay negative team at Appleton high school auditorium at 8 o'clock Friday evening, while the Appleton negative team will meet the Manitowoc affirmative in that city.

Effort is being made to attract a large crowd to the Appleton debate because of the expenses required to put on the program of the Fox River Valley league. Other events are expected to attract some of the crowd which the high school students would ordinarily have and they are anxious that their project does not fail.

The subject which they will use is "Resolved, That the coal mines of the United States be owned and controlled by the federal government, constitutionally granted." Four of the Appleton debaters are veterans and the others have been working hard to keep up the standard. The affirmative team includes Maurice Lewis, who had considerable experience in debate work at New London before coming to Appleton. Allen Bohne and Harry Hoefel, while the negative team includes Ray Fink, Catherine Pratt and Harold Zuehlke. Hoefel, Behne and Fink were debaters last year when Appleton won second place in the Lawrence league.

Those who will judge the debate here are Prof. C. H. Moore and Prof. C. Graham of Ripon college. The third judge has not yet been decided upon. C. R. Rounds, principal of the Shorewood schools at Milwaukee and Atty. F. Martin of Green Bay will be two judges at Manitowoc. The other will be chosen in a day or two.

Nature Study Made Alluring Through Charts

Charts showing how to protect plants and animals are being made by the sophomores at Appleton high school as a part of their work in biology. The students were given a wide range of choice of presentation of the material and could work out their own ideas in booklet, poster or chart form.

Some have brilliantly colored illustrations of the animals or plants, while others have pen and ink sketches. One or two of the students were moved to poetic effort and wrote the story of plant and animal protection in rhyme. A few of the students showed remarkable originality in their work.

These classes are under the direction of the Misses Margaret Ritchie and Ruth Saeker. It is because the chapters on these subjects are free to the students to prepare for recitation that they are given the opportunity to use their imagination concerning the best way of showing that they have mastered the details.

SANATORIA TO HAVE LIBRARY CIRCLE

Patients at Riverview sanatorium and all the other sanatoria in the state find that time hangs heavy on their hands during the months of enforced idleness necessary in the treatment of their cases. Books and phonographs have proved to be constant sources of entertainment for the patients and the only trouble with the libraries and record collections at these places is that they are too small and the patients who have to stay several months have read and reread every available book.

Mrs. R. N. Williams, 682 Prospect ave., Milwaukee, recently gave 50 books to the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and these will form the nucleus of traveling libraries which will be sent from one sanatorium to the next by the association. Any persons who have fiction and books of travel are urged to communicate with the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association at 558 Jefferson st., Milwaukee. Records of all kinds will be acceptable, too.

"Shall Ruin be the Penalty of Success?"

The Chicago Tribune in an editorial March 6th, says: —

"The senate committee on manufactures, directed by Senator La Follette, has returned a typical La Follette report attacking the various Standard Oil companies as, in effect, a monopoly more dangerous than the company was before its dissolution. The action emphasizes a growing tendency in this country to break down anything which is a success.

"We quote one paragraph as illustrative of the thought or lack of thought which produced the whole: 'While it may be that a Standard company in a particular territory does only about half the business in that territory—and some of the Standards do more than half—and some less—yet in all territory some Standard company is so much larger than any single competitor that it has come to be almost universally accepted that the tank wagon price in any territory is controlled absolutely by the Standard marketing company for that territory.'

"In words not arranged by Senator La Follette, that can mean only one thing, namely, that there is competition, and that prices are determined by the most efficient organization. If not, it is clear that a smaller company would undersell the Standard, and so bring prices down. The purpose of the report is to break up and destroy the more efficient organization for production and delivery of oil and oil products. What would it leave as a substitute? Numberless small concerns, doing business inefficiently and with high overhead costs, which without the competition of the Standard would immediately force prices up, not down. Incidentally it would stimulate promotion of all sorts of wildcat oil companies which would dupe investors or speculators and help raise the price of oil products.

"In more detail, the report complains of the private use of Standard pipe lines, and wants to make them common carriers. In other words it would penalize a progressive organization and force it to divide its means of service with inefficient organizations. That sort of tyranny over business cannot go on. Human beings will not work without reward. They will not improve service or cheapen production and distribution if the profit of such improvements is to be legislated away from them by socialistic demagogues. If this report became the basis of the legislation it seeks it would destroy the incentive for improvement and energy in the oil business, and that business would lapse into a condition where we would pay many times the price we now pay for its products.

"Such thinking and such attacks upon successful business of any kind threatens the same disaster. It means demoralization of industry and energy and threatens an end to all improvement.

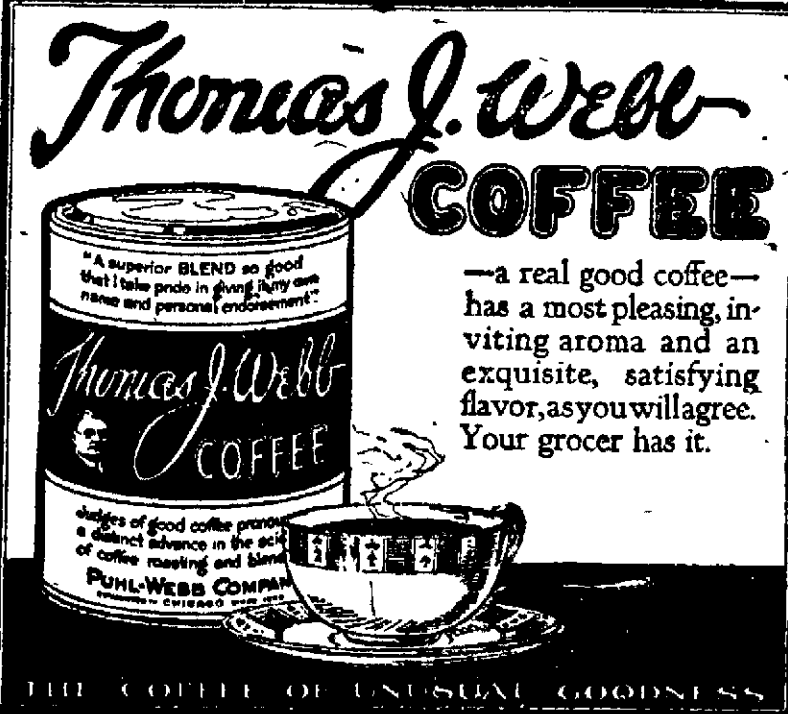

"The writer of this editorial does not now own, and never has owned, nor expects to own, one share of Standard or any other oil stock. He has, however, owned fivers, which consume oil products. He can understand how owners of automobiles would like to see the price of gasoline and oil come down. He can understand how a man like La Follette would seek the approval of the millions of automobile owners in this country by shouting that they are being robbed, and promising to stop it. But he believes too much in the intelligence of automobile owners to think they will seek lower prices of gasoline by destroying the most efficient producer and distributor of gasoline.

"It would not only be folly to bring that about because of its immediate effect, but because of its future effect. The Standard Oil companies are doing more to establish new sources of supply outside this country for American consumption than any other business we know. They have prospectors and engineers and financiers working throughout the world to obtain wells. Are we so lacking in intelligence that we would destroy a concern which is seeking to provide for our needs after our domestic supplies are exhausted?

"There is but one suggestion in the entire report that appears sane and reasonable. That is the one for prohibition or regulation of export. That is worthy of consideration and study. It might be advisable, though even then we would have to consider possible retaliations and the question of whether it would be wise to cut off such a portion of our foreign trade. National defense might warrant it."

WAYS OF AIDING NEEDY VETERANS WERE NUMEROUS

Red Cross And Auxiliary Have Busy Time In February
Giving Service

The Red Cross and the American Legion auxiliary, which has been assisting the Red Cross, has given service to 56 former soldiers, during the month of February. Additional evidence was secured for 17 men in the county and for 3 who are already in hospitals. One case was handled for a man in Texas, another for one who is at Rest Haven and two who are in the State Military home.

Advances for five men outside this county were secured from Appleton doctors and nurses by the local chapter. There were seven of these advances. Vocational training correspondence was carried on for two men, an educational bonus was secured for another and a dependency claim was filed for another. Three free correspondence courses were secured, two from the University of Wisconsin and another from the Knights of Columbus. Correspondence was carried on for another man in regard to immediate entrance into training. A transference of a liberty bond belonging to a deceased son was made.

HOSPITAL CASES

The chapter wrote five letters to men in hospitals and took care of two men who entered the Milwaukee hospital and also of one who was discharged from Hospital 75 and of another who was transferred from Milwaukee to Rest Haven. There was a transfer of one case to Oshkosh, another to Neenah, while Waupaca transferred one to Appleton. Letters had been written during the month to chapters in Washington, D. C., New York, Milwaukee, Fond du Lac, Menasha, Denver, and to Legion post service departments in Oshkosh and Racine.

Three family calls have been made by the Red Cross secretary and the Legion auxiliary welfare department has made three hospital calls, one at the sanatorium and one at home. The cost of these calls has been $14 in cheer, while $14 has been loaned to men in hospitals by the auxiliary. The services of three nurses were paid by the hour for emergency cases which amounted to $17.75. Two service men who were going through Appleton were provided with meals.

TAX RETURNS DUE TOMORROW NIGHT

Thursday Is Last Day For Filing
Both Federal And State
Blanks

The office of the federal revenue department in the city hall will be open Thursday evening for the receiving of income tax returns. March 15 will be the last day of grace and all reports received after 12 o'clock that evening will be subject to penalty or 25 per cent on the tax, besides a $5 fine.

March 15 is also the last day for filing of state income tax reports at the assessor of incomes office in the courthouse. The penalty for failure to report before 12 o'clock Thursday evening is a double rate of income tax. Where the omission is intentional, a much more severe penalty may be imposed.

Clears the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating. No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c. adv.

Badger Industries Absorb More Men As Conditions Improve

Employment Centers Show
Fewer Men Out Of Work—
Lumber Industry Upset By Storms And Huge Building
Outlook

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Increased employment throughout Wisconsin and rather exceptional activity in all lines for this season, was revealed in the monthly report on industrial conditions given out at the office of Secretary of Labor Davis.

Many Wisconsin lumber camps have been forced to shut down and the lumber industry is paralyzed in some sections, due to stormy weather, although an acute shortage of woodworkers exists in all the northern camps. The iron and steel industry is operating at 85 per cent of capacity. The meat packing industry is 20 per cent improved over a year ago. Metal trade firms have all shown large increases in employment.

Practically all shoe factories are operating to capacity. The output of shoe factories in Milwaukee is 25 per cent greater than a year ago. Increased employment in furniture, fine wood working, candy, and soap industries. One firm in the farm implement line took on approximately 200 additional men. Another firm making rubber tires and other rubber products added 240 to its pay roll.

ADD MORE HELP
Racine—Several factories are working on increased production schedules and are putting on more help. One automobile tire company is operating with a night shift. There is sufficient employment to absorb all those temporarily released in other lines. Several buildings under construction.

Kenosha—Increase of 500 operatives in various lines of employment over last month. Slight shortage of skilled workers in automobile industry. One motor company cleared affecting 100 workers. All plants are operating full time.

Oshkosh—Surplus of common labor apparent, but not more than usual for this period of the year. Woodworking industry is running to full capacity. Textiles are very favorable. Building trades busy. Scarcity of farm help.

Wausau—The lumber industry is still badly handicapped owing to a shortage of labor in both the logging camps and the sawmills. Sawmills are working night and day shifts. Outside of this industry is about normal. A slowing down is noticeable in the building industry.

Asiland—Sufficient employment to absorb all those temporarily released in other lines. No building projects.

ALL PLANTS BUSY
Superior—Slight seasonal surplus of workers, especially in the building trades. Increased employment in railroad circles. All plants operating regular time.

Green Bay—Insufficient employment to absorb all those unemployed. Shortage of woodmen. Surplus of factory help. All plants running, but on shorter hours.

Rhineland—Shortage of woodworkers has become more acute during the past month. Several sawmills are working day and night. All plants are running full time. Building industry at a standstill.

Fond du Lac—Slight increase in employment, although surplus workers exist in practically all lines. Building trades inactive.

Madison—Surplus of clerical workers. Shortage of farm help. Building trades continue fairly busy. The close of the ice harvest has released approximately 300 men, causing a decided surplus of common labor.

Sheboygan—Shortage of workers in practically all lines. All factories are working full time. A large warehouse and department store are under construction. A great shortage of houses exists.

Eau Claire—Practically no unemployment. Big demand for men in the lumber camps takes care of any surplus that might prevail. Plants are running full capacity, with the exception of steel mills and foundries, which are increasing in capacity daily. A new 600-foot bridge is to be constructed shortly and will give employment to 200 men.

LaCrosse—Surplus of common labor. Shortage of women workers in stitching departments and in assembling work at gauge factories. New plant of a large cigar company has located here, offering considerable employment. Small building program under way.

STATE JEWELERS WILL MEET AT FONDY IN MAY

The state convention of the Wisconsin Jewelers association will take place on May 23 and 24 in Fond du Lac, where hotel Retlaw will be the headquarters. The dates were set last week at a conference of officers in Fond du Lac. It is expected that 300 jewelers will attend from all the larger cities in the state. The program for the convention has not been arranged.

MILWAUKEE PLANS GALA CONVENTION FOR ROTARY CLUBS

Warm Welcome And Round Of Receptions On Program
Starting Thursday

Business will be liberally mixed with pleasure when the Rotary clubs of the tenth district, comprising Wisconsin and the upper peninsula of Michigan, hold their conference in Milwaukee on Thursday and Friday, March 15 and 16.

Upon reaching their destination the delegates, with their wives and daughters, will find Milwaukee Rotarians wearing white ribbons stamped with the Rotary medallion and the word "Milwaukee," waiting to help them reach their hotels and see the town. Automobiles, marked with Rotary windshield signs, will be at the command of the visitors. Boy scouts will act as guides and escorts for those who wish it.

The ladies will be treated to a theatre party, sightseeing tours, card party, informal luncheons, and a big informal banquet, reception and ball. They will have plenty of time for shopping, however.

Delegates are in for a treat when Frederick W. Carberry, official song leader of Rotary International, appears to lead the community songs. He will also provide orchestras and musical numbers for the various occasions.

Voters Invited To Study Proposed Roadway At Cherry-st Approaches

An engineer's map is on display in the corridor leading to the city engineering office in the city hall showing the proposed street that would be opened up from the Cherry-st bridge, provided the bridge is to be built.

At the foot of the Cherry-st bridge is shown a proposed park of about six acres through which the proposed street is to extend. The city would, if the plan is successful, purchase a 100-foot right-of-way from the Fox river to the county line and possibly 600 feet beyond to connect with the Menasha-rd.

The street would be in the nature of a boulevard such as the west part of College-ave. The green parkway in the center would be 30 feet wide, the driveway on either side of the turf would be 20 feet wide. The terraces adjoining the sidewalks and curbs would be 10 feet wide, and the walls would be 5 feet wide. If a new street naming system is adopted by the city, it is likely that the boulevard, if it becomes a reality, would be named Richmond-blvd or Richmond-ave, inasmuch as Cherry-st is almost on a line with Richmond - st. The bridge, when built, would be in that case be known as the Richmond-bridge instead of Cherry-st bridge.

The map in the city hall is open to inspection for the intelligence of the voters. It has also been suggested that the voters, before casting their vote next Tuesday, take a walk down from Lake-st down on Seymour-st to its present terminus, which would be the intersection of the new street leading from the bridge.

NAIL CAUSES DEATH OF VALUABLE COW

High Producer Is Lost By O. Mossholder & Sons— Had Big Record

Netherlands Baby De Kol, II, owned by O. Mossholder & Sons, the first Holstein cow in Outagamie-co to produce 1,000 pounds of butter in one year is dead as the result of swallowing a nail which pierced her heart.

Netherlands Baby De Kol, II, had a number of seven-day records. One of which was 28 pounds of butter and 638.9 pounds of milk. She had a yearly record of 1,054 pounds of butter and 22,474 pounds of milk.

Netherlands was bred by F. A. Ziegler of Appleton and was sold to O. Mossholder & Sons eight years ago. Since that time she produced three daughters all of which are living and give promise of equaling their dam in production; also, a number of granddaughters all owned by O. Mossholder & Sons.

MAKE POSSIBLE FIVE NEW HOMES

With the authorization of loans approximating $10,000, the board of directors of Appleton Building and Loan association at a special meeting Tuesday evening made certain the erection of five new homes in the city this summer. Several other applications were submitted to the appraisal committee but their approval was deferred until the next regular meeting of the directors.

Applications to be considered at the April meeting are to be submitted not later than April 10, the board decided. The appraisal committee then will make its investigation in time for a report on April 12.

FORTUNE AWAITS RIEDER FAMILY

Nicholas Reider, assistant chief of Appleton fire department, has been asked to assist in locating a certain Rieder family supposed to be living in Wisconsin and which has come into an inheritance. Recently Governor Blaine received a letter from Hermann Kelt, Germany, signed by Johann Jax, which asked for the address of members of the Rieder family who have inherited a fortune.

The letter requests the addresses of Peter Rieder, Johanna Abel nee Reider, as well as that of the children of the deceased Anton Rieder and his wife Catherine nee Jax. It is their brother who has left the fortune.

WIVES GIVE FLAG TO ROTARY CLUB

Appleton Rotary club was presented with an ingenious new flag by wives of members who will go to the Milwaukee convention on Thursday at the meeting Tuesday noon. The flag was presented in a humorous style by Mrs. Joseph Koffend, Jr., and was accepted by Dr. D. O. Kinsman. The wives who are going to Milwaukee were guests at the Tuesday meeting.

A program of original songs and stunts was presented. A guessing contest on the weights of the men who are not going to Milwaukee cost them some money, which was turned over to the conventionists to spend.

I SPIED TODAY

The popularity of the picture shown at the Elite theatre generally is reflected in the number of items contributed to I Spied Today. If it is a picture that a large number of people want to see there is a sharp increase in the number of I Spied contributions. Apparently everybody in town wants to see Lorne Doone, which opened Tuesday night. The mails have been flooded with I Spied items. A pair of tickets will be given for every item printed in the paper. If you see something that will interest Post-Crescent readers, report it in an interesting way and then call for your tickets.

HIT MUSHROOM LIGHT
I observed a delivery truck belonging to Louis Bonjup up over Monday noon when it struck the mushroom light, covered with snow, in the pivo ment at the corner of State-st and College-ave. Fred Nabbefeldt, driver, escaped injury. The top and the windshield of the truck were damaged.

HE LEFT AT ONCE
Saturday evening as I was coming home from Appleton, I saw a young man get in the street car. He came and sat beside a young lady whom he must have known. When the conductor came to collect the fares, the young man got up and started feeling in all his pockets for money to pay the young lady's fare. Seeing that he only had the price to pay for himself, he walked to the back of the car. The young lady said her own fare, and had a good laugh on him.

CAR COVERED BY SNOW
Monday morning on my way to work, I saw a Ford touring car nearly buried in the snow on the Neenah road. The car must have crashed in to a telephone pole, and then upset in a snow drift. The wind shield was broken, and part of the top caved in. It looked desolate with the curtains flapping in the wind and the snow covering it.

WITH HIS HEAD IN HIS WING
When the blizzard was raging on Monday morning, I started for school, but heard a queer little chirp as I left the porch. There in the vines on the porch was a robin which looked completely exhausted. I got within a foot or two of it before it moved away. I went alone because I wanted the bird to stay in the vines where it would have some protection.

THE FROSH LIKE IT
Monday evening I certainly felt sorry for a freshman at the fraternity house on North-st. My attention was attracted to the house by the noise and then I saw about 20 fellows standing on the porch laughing and yelling while the "frosh" was made to run around the house twice in his thin B. V. D.'s.

CAR STOPPED IN TIME
An elderly, gray haired man who was walking with the aid of a cane was about to cross the street car track on North Street near Laws at just a quarter past two on Monday afternoon. A street car coming west was still a half block away when he attempted to cross. Suddenly he fell directly in the path of the car. He lay there helpless, but thanks to the alert motorman, the car stopped just before it reached him. He slowly picked himself up and signified his intention of boarding the car. His whole body trembled as he climbed up the steps.

ALLEN TELLS HOW KANSAS HANDLES LABOR TROUBLES

Believes Workers Should Be Protected Against Labor Leader's Aims

While not opposed to unionism, and while he said he would do nothing that would make its pathway more difficult, Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas, in his address on the industrial situation at Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday evening held the labor leader responsible to a great extent for the controversy between capital and labor.

The address was the final number of the Appleton Community Lecture and Artist Series. The speaker was introduced by Dr. W. S. Naylor, a former schoolmate and personal friend. The two met while in service during the World war after years of separation. Dr. Naylor said the former governor's people reelected him governor while he was in France, carrying all but three counties.

The speaker said the business of the labor leader was a great business and that there were 150,000 of them drawing $60,000,000 annually in wages which are paid by the working people. If the report is true that the American Federation of Labor is opposed to the working man owning his own home because of the advantage it gives his employer, then we need an impartial tribunal to make it possible for him to buy his home, the former governor declared.

LAW IS EMERGENCY
The method of handling strikes and other controversies between capital and labor in Kansas which finally led to the establishment of the industrial court to which both sides can appeal for redress was dwelt upon at length by the speaker, who said it was an emergency measure.

Gov. Allen reviewed the labor situation at the close of the war and the strikes that followed including those of the garment workers of New York, the builders strike in Chicago, and the coal strike in his own state. Due to having no supply of coal on hand the speaker said the situation became so serious in Kansas it was necessary for him to ask the supreme court to turn over the mines to him in order to get enough coal to keep the people from freezing.

When this was done Gov. Allen said he was the greatest individual miner in the world. He immediately went to the mines to induce the men to go back to work and failing in this he called for volunteers and within 12 hours 15,000 men offered their services. Many of the men were soldiers from the farms, business colleges and schools, not "scabs" but stalwart young men who came to help the people. Alexander Howatt was one of the leaders who said no coal had ever been mined in his district that was not mined by union miners.

PUBLIC AWAKE
To protect the men, the speaker said, he sent a regiment of the national guard to the mines, but it was not needed. The first day the men were organized they produced a carload of coal and they were not long in supplying immediate needs. The experience made the people realize that the state had a right to protect the public in a strike. When he called a special session of the legislature for the purpose of writing into the statutes a remedy making a repetition of the experience impossible labor divided into two groups, the radicals and the conservatives, declared Gov. Allen.

According to the speaker the law was passed substantially as it was prepared and has been on the statute books for three years. It deals justly with both labor and capital and both are benefited by it. Attention was called to certain phases of the measure, one of which legalizes collective bargaining for all who wish to use it. Labor shall not conspire to close down the railroads. The men can quit if they so wish. In other words, the law holds that the right to work is just as sacred as the right to loaf.

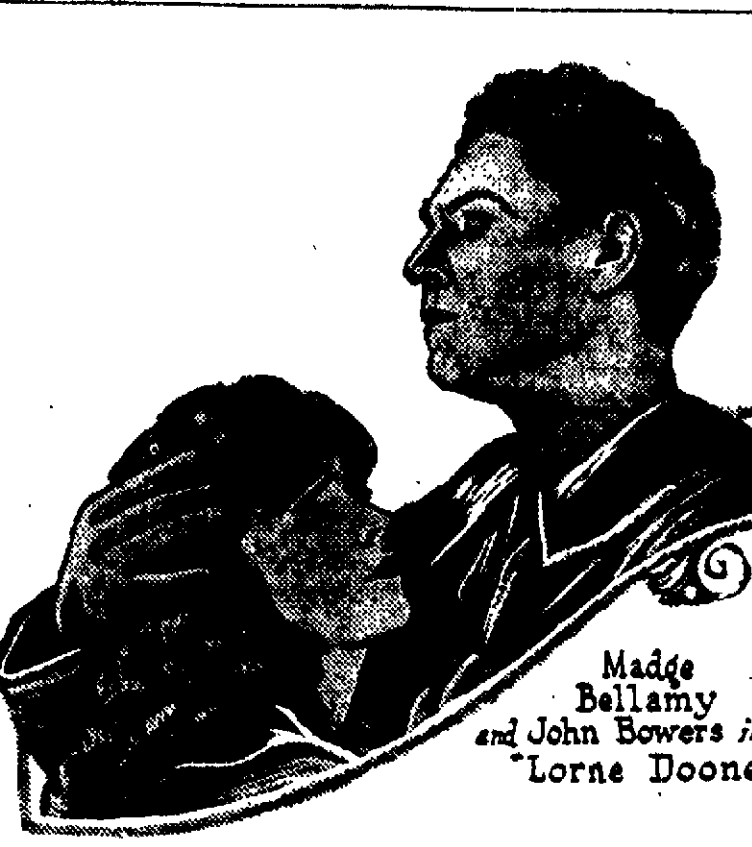

QUESTION OF RIGHTS
Gov. Allen said the finest definition of government he ever read was that given by Samuel Adams, who said it was justice. Edmund Burke, standing in the British parliament, said his government had spent enormous sums of money to place 12 honest men in the jury box. And the question here is whether any class shall live above the law, or whether any part of them shall be greater than the law controls the government.

The speaker touched upon the arrest of Alexander Howatt, a labor leader. The trial of Howatt cost the state $274, while Howatt took out of the miners' fund $27,000. The jury found him guilty. The governor told of a meeting of his followers at the jail shortly after his arrest at which the sheriff permitted the prisoner to address them and of the sheriff being replaced and the prisoner removed to another part of the state prior to a subsequent meeting.

Gov. Allen referred also to his causing the arrest of his friend, William Allen White, for giving to an incident all the force of a fundamental. His arrest followed the course pursued by him relative to cards placed in shop windows which read, "We are 100 per cent in sympathy with the men in the shops."

BURMESE NEED STRONG RULE, ASSERTS QUEEN

Former Queen And Exile Says It Isn't Time For Home Government

Rangoon—Supayalat, the aged ex-queen of Burma, has said to a representative of the Associated Press that, in her opinion, the Burmans are not yet ready for complete home rule. Her majesty is now 63 years old and is living in seclusion in Rangoon. This was the first press interview she has granted since 1917.

When asked for her opinion on the political question in Burma, Queen Supayalat replied:

"The Burmans are not yet ready for complete home rule. They are divided among themselves, and need a strong government to hold them together. They say they are united, but it is only a unity of words. I hope that some day there will be real unity of the Burmese people."

Her majesty spoke of her deep affection for America, and of her high regard for the American citizens with whom she had come in contact. She said that while she was exiled in India, American friends had offered to take her to the United States, and when she was returning to Burma in 1917, an American missionary

BUSH TRUCK HIT TWICE BY MOVING FREIGHT CARS

A motortruck belonging to L. E. Bushey was struck twice by moving freight cars while being loaded at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul company depot. After it was struck the first time the conductor ascertained the extent of the damage and took the license number with the intention of making a report to his company and repeated the proceedings 15 minutes later when it was struck the second time. The person responsible for the damage was summarily dismissed by the company.

THE KISS OF JUDAS

"I admire your taste," I assured her.

"You are the best-dressed woman and the best-looking woman in the room."

"Too impersonal," she complained. I turned the conversation to the subject of the necklace. The pearls were collected for her, she told me, by her husband, some in India, some in the Malay states, some in Paris, some in Rio. She spoke of him quite frankly—a prosperous fruit-broker who had achieved sudden opulence.

"It was quite as much a chance for me as it was for him," she remarked. "I was a typist in Buenos Aires before we were married. I have known what it is to be poor."

The music was seductive, and presently we danced once or twice. In the bathroom, however, my companion showed signs of renewed nervousness. The fingers of one hand were nearly all the time staying around her neck, as though to assure herself that the necklace was still there. Presently she drew me away with an apologetic little laugh.

"I am quite made," she confessed. "But I have a fit of nerves tonight. I am going upstairs early. Do you mind?"

"Of course not," I told her. "Let me see you to the lift."

"I am going to ask you to do more than that," she said. "I am going to ask you to come up to my sitting-room, and escort my maid down to the office when she takes my necklace there. As a reward you can come back afterward, if you will, and have a whiskey and soda with me."

I rank for the lift, and we ascended together to the fourth floor. She handed me her key and I looked at the door of her charming little salon. She pointed to the evening paper and an easy chair.

She nodded and disappeared. I stood for a moment looking after her. The door was closed softly. I heard her call to her maid in the farther apartment.

Those next few seconds seemed to beat themselves out in my brain, charged with strange and almost amazing significance. I am convinced that I acted from impulse.

There was nothing definite in my mind when from behind that closed door I conceived the sudden idea which prompted my action. I crossed the floor of the sitting-room and opened the door which led on to the corridor. There was no one in sight, and it seemed to me that the power of the electric light was less than usual.

I stood there every nerve of my body riveted upon an attempt at dual listening. I listened for the return of Mrs. De Mendoza, and I listened for the opening of either of her doors. Presently what I deemed might happen, came to pass. The door of her bedroom, in a line with the one behind which I was lurking, opened. I peered through the crack.

Annette, the maid, a trim, dark figure, had crossed the threshold. Then without even glancing toward the sitting-room, she walked swiftly along the corridor and turned to the left toward the lift and staircases. In a couple of stealthy strides I too had reached the corner, and peering round, watched her movements. To my surprise, she passed the lift and turned the other corner of the corridor toward the staircases. As soon as she was out of sight, I followed.

As I reached the farther angle, ever light was suddenly extinguished. There was a little gurgling cry, the sound of a heavy fall upon the soft carpet. In a second or two I was on the spot. I could dimly see where Annette was lying, gasping for breath, apparently half-unconscious. By her side lay the jewel-case, open and empty.

I did nothing for a moment toward raising any alarm. I bent over, the girl and satisfied myself that she was not shamming—that she had, in effect, been subjected to a certain amount of violence. I glanced at the transoms over the doors of the bedrooms opposite. There were three of them between where I was and the turn to the lift. Suddenly the farther door was opened, softly but not stealthily. A figure appeared, and leaning down, threw a pair of shoes upon the mat. I suppose that I was dimly visible in the semi-darkness, for the man suddenly left off whistling, and turned in my direction.

"Hallo, there!" he called out.

I drew from my pocket the little electric torch which I had been keeping in readiness, and flashed it upon him. It was my friend Mr. Stanfield, in striped yellow and white pajamas, a cigarette between his teeth, his feet encased in comfortable slippers.

"What the devil are you doing out there?" he demanded. "And who's turned the lights out?"

"Better turn them on and you may see," I replied. "There's a switch close to your door."

He found it after a moment's fumbling, and stared at us in amazement. The maid, with her fingers still to her throat, had recovered sufficiently to sit up, and was leaning with her back to the wall, clasping her hands and moaning to herself. The empty jewel-case told its own story. "Jerusalem!" Mr. Stanfield exclaimed breathlessly. "A robbery!" "Ring your bell," I directed. He disappeared into his room for a moment, leaving the door open. Presently he reappeared.

"I've rung all three," he announced. "Then the wipers have been cut," I answered, pointing to the register lower down, which had not moved. "Go to the lift and see if you can get anyone."

He was gone for about half a minute. I leaned down toward the girl, who was beginning to cry. "Did you see who attacked you?" I asked.

"No," she sobbed. "All the lights went out suddenly. Someone came up from behind. I never heard a sound—just the clutch at my throat and the choking."

"Why did you not wait for me or go by the lift?" I demanded. She looked a little puzzled. "I never go by the lift," she replied.

"Why not?"

"Fred, the second-floor valet, generally meets me on the floor below," she explained reluctantly. "And—"

"I see," I interrupted. "But didn't your mistress tell you to wait and go down with me?"

The girl seemed surprised. "My head is queer," she admitted. "and I can't remember much; but Madame said nothing to me except to tell me to hurry down."

The silence of the corridor was suddenly broken. Mr. Stanfield reappeared, followed by a little army of servants and the manager.

"Send everyone away except two men whom you can trust," I begged the latter. "Mrs. De Mendoza's necklace has been stolen."

There was a murmur of consternation and excitement. The manager selected two of the servants and dismissed the rest. He posted one by the lift and another one by the staircase.

"You think the thief has got away?" he asked.

"One cannot tell," I replied. "I want to know about these three rooms."

He glanced at the numbers. "The farthest one is occupied by Mr. Stanfield," he announced. "The other two are empty."

"You are sure that this one," I asked, pointing to the door close to where we stood, is unoccupied?"

"Certain," was the confident reply. "Take my keys and see for your self."

I was on the point of doing so when Mrs. De Mendoza appeared. She was clad in a wonderful light blue wrapper, and the touch of excitement seemed to add to her beauty.

"My necklace!" she gasped. "Don't tell me that it is gone!"

"Madame," the manager began. I regret to say—

"What were you doing, then?" she cried, turning to me. "Do you mean to say that it was stolen while Annette was with you?"

"Annette was never with me," I replied. "She left your bedroom with the jewel-case without coming near the sitting-room."

"Is this true, Annette?" he mis-true demanded.

"But why not, Madame?" Annette faltered. "You said nothing to me about going into the sitting-room. I did not know that Monsieur was to accompany me."

"The girl is telling a falsehood," Mrs. De Mendoza declared angrily. "Could these matters wait for a moment?" I intervened. "Our immediate task is to try and recover the necklace. I wish everyone to leave this place—except you, sir," I added, addressing the manager, "and myself."

Mr. Stanfield reluctantly withdrew and satisfied myself that she was not shamming—that she had, in effect, been subjected to a certain amount of violence. I glanced at the transoms over the doors of the bedrooms opposite. There were three of them between where I was and the turn to the lift. Suddenly the farther door was opened, softly but not stealthily. A figure appeared, and leaning down, threw a pair of shoes upon the mat. I suppose that I was dimly visible in the semi-darkness, for the man suddenly left off whistling, and turned in my direction.

"Hallo, there!" he called out. I drew from my pocket the little electric torch which I had been keeping in readiness, and flashed it upon him. It was my friend Mr. Stanfield, in striped yellow and white pajamas, a cigarette between his teeth, his feet encased in comfortable slippers.

Men Helpless
In Selecting
Flower Gifts

BY MARIAN HALE

"A man's so perfectly helpless," says Agnes Traband, "when it comes to selecting flowers."

Miss Traband is assistant florist at the Pennsylvania, in New York, the world's largest hotel. She knows practically everything concerning every variety of the thousands and thousands of plants in the hotel greenhouses, and ranks as one of the most highly specialized florists in the country.

To her, every year, come throngs of distracted masculine customers seeking advice relative to the Easter corsage problem.

FOR THE WIFE

"To his wife," she explains, "I always counsel a man to send pink roses and violets. They seem to me to suggest love and affection."

"But if a customer wants a corsage for his sweetheart I advise orchids. Girls love them—they know they're so expensive."

Red roses hint at burning love, and lilies of the valley at subtle compliment.

"The modern girl, however, cares less for flowers, as gifts, than her mother did. To the former's practical soul, flowers are too perishable. She prefers jewelry, or something else with a permanent value."

AT THE TABLE

Restless planning corsages, Miss Traband designs all the Pennsylvania's table decorations.

"This year," she says, "I shall have about 1800 tables to decorate for Easter banquets."

"I'm going to feature combinations of blue, pink and pale yellow—blue delphiniums, pink sweet peas and forced peach blossoms, and pale yellow tulips—all so suggestive of spring."

"For the table I always plan something low and spreading, so as not to interfere with the diner's vision."

NOT MANY BLOSSOMS

"I use flat bowls, silver or glass platters or very squat baskets, and just few blossoms, banded against green foliage."

"Artificial butterflies, noised on the bowl, are very effective."

"For Easter gifts I like the fancy baskets, colored or natural, tied with big ribbon bows, and filled with tulips, hyacinths or combinations of spring flowers, including the pussy willow, which is one of the most decorative of plants, and the delicate forsythia."

IDEAL EASTER MILLINERY

Here's a peep at a trio of exceedingly pretty spring hats.

At the upper left is a dream in purple and the new shade—"mountain haze." With the right type of face it gives an entrancing effect.

At the upper right is a very chic thing to which black moire ribbon gives its charm. Few designs at the recent millinery show in New York.

The hat at the bottom is a platinum and navy blue ribbon confection.

It isn't a bit likely that the Easter turnout in any city will have prettier samples to show.

Be Ready For
The Kids When They Are Hungry

Every mother of normal children is quite used to the cry, when the youngsters rush in from school, "Got anything that we can eat?" and every mother knows that it is perfectly useless to say, "Why, you ate a hearty lunch just a couple of hours ago; can't you wait until dinner?" Food they must have, and often the traditional apple will not do at all; as one little girl put it, "What we want is stanch-buns."

So, for the substantialists that are demanded who not keep on hand some of the old-time homemade buns and rusks. They are not too sweet to be harmful, and just sweet enough to be interesting. Rusks all spiced with cinnamon or filled with currants, buns just oozing raisins and cinnamon—the very thought of them makes one long to be young again and demanding "something good to eat."

Here are a few recipes which have been tested time and time again—they are well worth trying.

CURRENT RUSKS

Scald and cool to lukewarm two cups of milk. Add one yeast cake and one tablespoon of sugar. Add to this three cups of bread flour and beat well. Cover and set aside in a warm place to rise for an hour. Cream together one cup of sugar and one-half cup of butter. Add two well beaten eggs and when the bread sponge is light add the egg mixture. Now add one cup of currants, which have been previously cleaned and floured, one teaspoon lemon extract and one level teaspoon salt. Add enough flour to make a dough which will knead about three cups. Knead lightly, set in a warm place to rise for about two and one-half hours. When risen to double its bulk, turn on a kneading board and mold into rolls. Place in well greased pans, cover and let rise until the bulk doubles. Brush with egg, dilute with milk and bake from 20 minutes to one-half hour—depending upon the size of the rolls.

CINNAMON BUNS

Two cups scalded milk, cooled to lukewarm, one-half cup butter, two eggs, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, one cake compressed yeast, one cup seeded raisins, cinnamon, one-half cup sugar and flour. Dissolve the yeast in the milk, add a tablespoon of sugar and enough flour to make a batter. Let rise until light. Beat together the rest of the one-half cup of sugar with the butter, add the eggs, and add this mixture to the light batter. Then add the floured raisins, the salt and enough flour to make a dough which can be kneaded. Knead lightly on a board and then turn out on a floured board. Roll into an oblong shape and spread with the other half cup of sugar which has been mixed with a tablespoon of cinnamon. Roll as for jelly roll, wet the edges to make them stick, and then with a sharp knife cut across into pieces about three-quarters of an inch thick. Place on a buttered sheet, letting each bun touch the next one to it. Brush over with melted butter and let rise until double in bulk again. Bake for about 20 minutes, take from oven and brush each bun with water being made from confectioners' sugar, water and a little lemon flavoring.—Baltimore News.

Women Should Learn Art
Of Spending Money Wisely

Women Getting Only 30 Per Cent Efficiency For Money They Spend

"Buyership" for women! That's the perfectly good new idea and new word which Miss Mary B. Sweeney, founder and executive secretary of the American Home Economics association, launched at the convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association.

What it means, of course, is "knowing how to buy," and Miss Sweeney frankly asked the association what it is doing today to get buyership over to the American woman.

"Eighty-three per cent of all the money earned in this country is being spent by women," she said, "and the average woman is getting about 30 per cent efficiency in the use of her share of that money."

FIRST LESSON TO LEARN

"The chief things which every woman ought to know about buyership, and which every shop should help to teach her, are these:

1. How not to be or to feel cheated.
2. How to understand values—what makes the price.
3. How to know and obtain quality.

4. How to get what she wants—not what other women want.

5. How to get it quickly.

6. How to understand advertising.

7. How to procure standard goods.

Then Miss Sweeney proceeded to explain each point in greater detail.

"When the woman buyer feels that she has been cheated," she declared, "she often has cheated herself—but on the other hand, the store has done nothing to prevent her self-deception."

She doesn't know what she ought to know about the goods she is buying, and the store, or its representative, the sales clerk, has not tried to teach her.

"A woman asks for a pair of silk stockings. She takes away a pair of imitation silk, and expects them to wear like the pure silk thread. When they don't, she registers a black mark against the store. But she hasn't asked for the pure thread, she doesn't understand the difference between it and its cheaper substitutes, and even if the various kinds of stockings are truthfully labeled the average customer does not translate in her own mind what differences in quality the labels indicate. It would pay her—and it would pay the store in the long run—if she should know what she is buying."

STORE SHOULD COOPERATE

"Not only do I think a woman should learn to know quality. I also believe that the store should make it easy for her to obtain it. Let the stores do some educational work in persuading people to buy articles of wearing apparel and of household furnishings that are strong and beautiful, instead of mere tawdry, gim-crackery. Why work so hard trying to sell the useless and the ugly and the fictitious cheap?"

"A woman who buys should know how to buy with an economy of her own time, and there, too, the store can cooperate—instead of sending her to half a dozen different departments to buy a bit of ribbon or a celluloid toothbrush—because some clerk or floorwalker doesn't know the stock."

"Advertising should make more of an appeal to the intelligence of the woman buyer. She does not need to be an expert in buyership to feel puzzled and distrustful of the advertisement which offers her a $250 frock reduced to $100. She wants to know how a store can afford such a gigantic drop—and she is even skeptical enough to think perhaps the dress never was worth more than $100!"

"Finally, the woman who works—and that means, in the America of today, one woman in every four—wants a greater standardization in the simplest and most essential articles. She wants her business suits, her everyday coats and hats, as little subject to fluctuation of style as the apparel worn by men. Their suits come in different colors, there are slight variations in the mode—yet a man can buy a suit and wear it at least two years. Why should a woman's shop dealing in waists change the mode 95 times between January and April, as one New York firm said they did.

"I would like to see, what every intelligent woman buyer would like to see," Miss Sweeney finished, earnestly, "is the men that run the stores getting together and asking the women what they want, instead of everlastingly saying 'Here's what you must buy.'"

Adventures Of
The Twins

Jack Horner Next

The next place the Twins came to was the house of Jack Horner. Jack was standing at his front door.

"Hello!" said he, when he saw the Twins.

"Hello!" said Nancy and Nick. "We are hunting for Mother Goose's Magic broomstick. Do you know where it is?"

"No," answered Jack. "I don't like brooms. I only like raisin pie and plum cake and fruit pudding. Would you like to have some?"

"Yes, thank you," answered Nancy, "but we'll have to hurry now and we can't stay. We thought you might have the broom to sweep up your crumbs."

"Well, as to that," replied Jack, "I never make any for I eat all mine. But you might ask Tom Tucker."

The Twins thanked him and the Green Shoes whisked them off to Tom's house.

As usual, he was eating bread and butter.

"Any brooms here?" asked Nancy, sticking in her head. "Mother Goose has lost her's and we're after it. The cobwebs are getting so thick in the sky the sun can scarcely shine through."

"I'm not an old woman," growled Tommy with his mouth full. "Whatta I want with brooms? Go and ask Dame Trot or old Mother Hubbard or the Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe. Maybe they've got it."

"I don't think so," said Nancy. "Dame Trot's cat would lick up her crumbs. Mother Hubbard has no crumbs to lick up, and the Old Woman in the Shoe has not time to sweep."

Suddenly Tom had an idea. "You might ask on that star over there," he said. "It's called Mars and lots of people live there."

GOOD MANNERS

At the theatre or opera, good form decrees evening dress for those in the boxes, although less elaborate than for a ball or party.

In the orchestra, full or semi-evening attire is appropriate, but in cheaper seats plain street dress should be worn, anything more elaborate being bad form.

For the matinee, a simple street dress of dark material is suitable, except that, in summer, one may wear dainty fabrics of light color.

PISTACHIO ICE CREAM

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Mix three-quarters of a cup of sugar, a quarter of a teaspoon of salt and five tablespoons of flour until there are no lumps of flour.

Then add this mixture to two cups of scalded milk and stir constantly until it thickens.

Cook 10 minutes. Add two slightly beaten eggs and cook five minutes.

Remove from fire, strain, and add one pint of thin cream, flavoring with orange and col.

INTRODUCING strangers is an art. Introductions are not merely for the purpose of making acquaintances; they constitute the foundation for friendships. Hence they should amount to more than a haphazard statement of names. The skillful introducer places those introduced upon some ground of common interest, giving them an opportunity to advance this new acquaintance if they so desire.

INTRODUCTIONS

1. Before introducing persons to each other, one should be morally certain the introduction is agreeable to them both.

2. The introducer should ever be careful to enunciate both names distinctly; an incomplete introduction, omitting one's name, is embarrassing.

3. The man is presented to the woman, the younger person to the older, except in instances of notables, such as the president of the United States.

4. All introductions should be courteously acknowledged; a man being introduced to a woman waits for her to extend her hand, and if she doesn't, he may not, and briefly express his pleasure.

5. Future recognition of an introduction depends on the pleasure and social sense of the persons introduced.

IT'S BAD MANNERS to make an introduction as the result of a chance meeting on the street, unless there are particularly good reasons for so doing.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HIS FLAXENCE, LESLIE HAMILTON

MY DEAR GIRL:

Have you by any chance met a Priscilla Bradford lately? She is the daughter of a very dear friend of my mother and she is visiting a distant relative of mine by the name of Mary Alden in your town.

I have never met Miss Alden, and to tell you the truth, I could get along very well if I had never met Priscilla Bradford. My mother, however, is very proud of her. She is long on coming over in the Mayflower and all such rot, and Priscilla claims direct descent from Governor Bradford.

Personally, I don't care whether my ancestors emigrated in the Mayflower or the Kaiser Wilhelm. It seems to me to be the silliest thing imaginable to keep harping on your ancestry.

Anyway, Priscilla has certainly spoiled the brains. You see, darling, I had neglected to write to mother to tell her that you had made me the happiest man on earth. Mother is kind of fussy, you know; and I was quite aware that she had picked out Priscilla for me, and I hope you won't think I'm conceited when I tell you that I also knew Priscilla was willing. I was a coward, I guess, and I put off writing to her from day to day.

Of course, I never dreamed that Fate could play me such a joke as to plant that meddling Priscilla Bradford in your town just when the society editors are hounding you to death and every time you turn around some reporter is going to make copy of it.

You can imagine my mother's horror when she got a newspaper clipping telling all about your buying some elaborate nightdress for your trousseau—for you must know she has no idea of modern yellow journalism.

You must confess, dear girl, that it was putting it on a bit thick for people with old-fashioned ideas, when such intimate details of wedding trousseaus are made public.

If by any possibility you should see Priscilla, perhaps it would be a good thing for you to be nice to her; of course, you will have to invite her to the wedding. Mother will probably insist upon Priscilla staying with her at the hotel when she is there.

I am counting the days, sweet heart, and surely "it is a long, long way to Tipperary," and the sweetest girl I know. I expect perhaps that you should write to mother. What are the ethics of Mrs. Grundy on this subject? I'm sure I don't know.

Your mother, I'm her only son you know, and I guess I haven't lived up to what her son whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower should. Good night, dear one; isn't it horrible I haven't dreamed of you once, and every night when I close my eyes I prayed to do so? Again, good night my own girl. JACK.

LETTER FROM LESLIE HAMILTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

DEAR JOHN:

I have not by any chance met Priscilla Bradford, and to tell you the truth I hope I will not call! I do know slightly your distant relative, Mary Alden.

Miss Alden belongs to that class of society whose greatest pleasure is entertaining the Welfare League. Once in a great while she comes to one of the parties given by some of the older set, and she sits alongside of the wall with her mouth pursed up as though she thoroughly disapproved of all of us.

As for dancing, she would not think of it. I think she is engaged to the assistant preacher at the First M. E. church. She will make him a good wife.

I am quite sure that your Priscilla Bradford is a cat, and I think it is very horrid of her to send all that stuff to your mother. You can, of course, see that she wants your mother to dislike me.

I did not put it in the paper that I had purchased a nightdress like the one worn by Princess Olga of Rumania, but some enterprising reporter got it somewhere, and of course you can understand that it was spread on the society page immediately.

I wonder if you will forgive me, my dear John, if I tell you that I think your mother must not have a very nice mind. She seems to be one of those persons who is always finding fault because the modern girl does not wear any underclothes to speak of, and then makes a great fuss if by some possibility someone happens to speak of them. They seem to be things that are very necessary to be worn, but no one should think of speaking of them. To my mind it is a very silly idea.

Oh, John, I know I am being nasty, but you never did love that Priscilla Bradford, did you? And you would never let your mother or anyone else think that I wasn't nice, would you, just because I cannot endure that hypocritical modesty which to me is more vulgar than honest frankness?

I am just heartbroken over this affair. For I wanted your mother to love me. I wanted her to think that I was going to be a good wife to you. You know I will, don't you, John?

The spots on this paper are tears and for once I am glad you are not here. For I am not worthy when I cry. But either smiling or weeping, I am always your loving,

LESLIE.

BETTER HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Any woman who will stop and consider the result of a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., will in all fairness admit the value of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Fifty thousand replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 women stated they had been benefited or restored to health by its use. This means better health for American women. It will surely pay any woman who suffers from any ailment or weakness peculiar to her sex to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

DISTRICTS TO ACT ON TEACHERS' SALARIES

A meeting of treasurers and principals of the various school districts will be held at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 Wednesday evening at which the matter of salaries for teachers for the coming year will be considered. The question was referred to them at the joint meeting of school boards and principals at Appleton high school Thursday evening.

Now a QUICK
Quaker Oats
Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Good News

For those who breakfast in a hurry

There is now a Quaker Oats which cooks in from 3 to 5 minutes—the quick cooking oats in the world.

It is called Quick Quaker—perfected by our experts.

No other oat dish can compare with this in the little time needed to cook it.

The same Quaker flavor

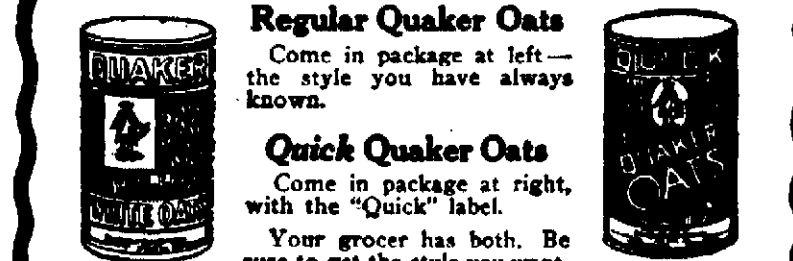

Quaker Oats dominates because of its flavor. It is flaked from the finest grains only—just the rich, plump, savory oats. A bushel of choice oats yields but ten pounds of these extra-flavor flakes.

That's why millions of mothers, all the world over, insist on this premier brand. They want their children to eat oats, so they make the oat dish tempting.

Quick Quaker is made from those same selected grains. But we cut the oats before flaking. Then they are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

So there are now two reasons for Quaker Oats. First, that matchless quality and flavor. Second, oats that cook faster than the coffee.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

Where uncertainty exists or street layout actually on the ground varies from the street layout as shown on a zoning diagram, the district boundary line shall be determined by the city engineer in accordance with the intent of this ordinance.

DIVISION OF LOTS BY ORDINARY LINES—Where a district boundary line shall cross a street or alley at this time of the passage of this chapter the regulations for a portion of such lot may extend to the entire lot, but not more than twenty feet beyond the district boundary line, the district for which such regulations are established.

EFFECT OF WIDENING STREET—Whenever a street is widened so as to be within one hundred and twenty feet of a boundary of a more restricted district, the restricted district shall thereupon be extended to the new boundary line back from the widened street. No change in the district boundary shall have the same force and effect as though separately ordained.

REPEAL OF THIS ORDINANCE UPON CONTRACTS AND AGREEMENTS AND UPON OTHERS—This ordinance shall not be subject to repeal by any contract or agreement or other agreement or regulation, or upon the interpretation and application of any ordinance, but shall be held to be the minimum requirements adopted for the promotion of the public safety, health, convenience, and general welfare. It shall not be subject to repeal, modification or interfere with or abrogate or annul any easements, covenants or other restrictions between parties; nor is it intended by this ordinance to repeal or modify any existing laws, ordinances, covenants or interfere with any existing provision of law or ordinance or rules, regulations or permits previously adopted or issued or which may be adopted or issued by the city relating to the use of buildings or premises; provided, however, where this ordinance imposes a restriction upon the uses of buildings or premises, or upon the construction or requires larger setbacks, courts or other open spaces than imposed or required by such existing laws, ordinances or regulations, such rules, regulations or permits shall be subject to repeal.

SECTION 12. INSURANCE BUILDING PERMITS BY CITY ENGINEER—No building or structure shall be erected, altered, converted, or repaired without the issuance of a permit by the city engineer. No permit for the construction, alteration of any building or structure or part thereof where the plans, specifications and intended use of the building or structure are required by Article 3 of this ordinance. In case the intended use of its statements falls within the provisions of all the regulations established by Article 3 of this ordinance such building or structure shall be permitted in any district in which any such classes are prohibited. The city engineer shall have authority to issue permits for building permits shall be accompanied by a plat in duplicate drawn to scale, showing the dimensions of the lot to be built upon, the distance every building or structure is set back from the street upon which said lot abuts, the building to be erected, and the intended use of the building, to provide for the enforcement of regulations. A careful record of all applications and plats shall be kept in the office of the city engineer. The city engineer shall be provided with any building permits required by these regulations as used as a yard, court or other space for another building.

SECTION 13. TEMPORARY OCCUPANCY—It shall be unlawful to use or permit the use of any building or premises or part thereof, altered, converted or repaired, or converted wholly or partially into a structure until a certificate of occupancy to the effect that the building or premises or the part thereof is suitable for the intended use, and the proposed use conforms to the provisions of this ordinance shall have been issued by the city engineer. It shall be the duty of the city engineer to issue a certificate of occupancy within ten days of a request for the same is filed, unless by any owner of a building or premises affected by this ordinance, the city engineer is notified in writing that the part thereof so created, altered, changed or converted, or proposed use thereof, conform to all the requirements of Article 3 of this ordinance.

FEE FOR CERTIFICATE OF OCCUPANCY—No fee shall be charged for an original certificate applied for coincidentally with the application for a building permit, or for certificates or for copies of any certificates there shall be a charge of $1 each.

TEMPORARY CERTIFICATE OF OCCUPANCY—Pending the issuance of a regular certificate, a temporary certificate may be issued for a term not exceeding six months, during the expiration of alterations or during the construction of a building, or during its occupation. Such temporary certificates shall not be issued under such restrictions and provisions as will adequately insure that the building or premises or part thereof shall be issued, if, prior to completion, the building fails to conform to the provisions of this ordinance, or the proposed use thereof, altered, changed or converted, or proposed use thereof, conform to all the requirements of Article 3 of this ordinance.

CHANGES REQUIRING A NEW CERTIFICATE OF OCCUPANCY—If the condition of occupancy is altered, or the use of the building or premises is substantially changed, or so changed as not to conform with the conditions required by the certificate issued therefor, the city engineer shall be notified, on which a building is located, yards or courts are reduced or increased shall be void and the owner shall notify the city engineer of the change, and if the building or premises or lot, if the building conforms to all the requirements of this ordinance a new certificate shall be issued as herein provided.

CONFORMANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF THIS ORDINANCE—If, on any inspection of the conditions of a building or premises or its use or occupancy are found to conform to the requirements of this ordinance, the city engineer shall at once issue written certificate to the owner, specifying the use of the building or premises, and the conditions required for its use, and the owner shall at once take steps to make it so conform, as required by the city engineer; and if the building or premises or part thereof occupied, he shall order the building or premises vacated until its use is made satisfactory in conformity with the requirements of this ordinance, and the city engineer shall be amended as herein provided.

AMENDMENTS AND CHANGES IN THE DISTRICTS AND REGULATION THEREFORE—This ordinance shall not be subject to repeal, modification or interfere with any existing laws, ordinances, covenants or other restrictions between parties; nor is it intended by this ordinance to repeal or modify any existing laws, ordinances, covenants or interfere with any existing provision of law or ordinance or rules, regulations or permits previously adopted or issued by the city relating to the use of buildings or premises; provided, however, where this ordinance imposes a restriction upon the uses of buildings or premises, or upon the construction or requires larger setbacks, courts or other open spaces than imposed or required by such existing laws, ordinances or regulations, such rules, regulations or permits shall be subject to repeal.

ment or change the boundaries or regulations herein or subsequently established. Whenever the owners of fifty per cent or more of the frontage in any district or part thereof present a petition duly signed and acknowledged to the council requesting an amendment, supplement or change in the regulations prescribed for such district or part thereof, it shall be the duty of the council to vote upon said petition within ninety days after the filing of the same by the petitioners with the city clerk. In case a protest against a proposed amendment, supplement, or change be presented, duly signed and acknowledged by the owners of twenty per cent of the frontage immediately in the rear thereof, or by the owners of twenty per cent of the frontage directly opposite the frontage proposed to be altered, such amendment shall not be passed except by two-thirds vote of the Council. If any area is hereafter transferred to another district by a change in district boundaries, any amendment, supplement or change in the regulations above provided, the provisions of this ordinance in regard to buildings or premises existing at the time of passage of such amendment in such transfer area shall be governed by the area to which it is transferred.

COMPLETION AND RESTORATION OF EXISTING BUILDINGS. SECTION 16. Nothing herein contained shall require any change in the plan or construction of any building or building for which a building permit has been heretofore issued and the construction of which shall have been diligently prosecuted within six months of the date of the passage of this ordinance. Nothing in this ordinance shall prevent the restoration of a wall declared unsafe by the city engineer, nor the restoration of a building destroyed less than fifty per cent of its value exclusive of foundations, by fire, explosion, act of God, or act of the public enemy subsequent to the passage of this ordinance.

SECTION 17. PENALTIES.—Any person, firm, company or corporation owning, controlling or managing any building or premises whereof there exists anything in violation of any of the sections of this chapter; or any person, firm, company or corporation who shall assist in the commission of any violation of the sections; or who shall build contrary to the plans or specifications submitted to and approved by the city engineer; or any person, firm, company or corporation who shall omit, neglect or refuse to do any act required in said sections shall, except where a special penalty is provided, be subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than two hundred dollars, together with the costs of the action and in default of payment thereof, to imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than one day nor more than six months, or until such fine and costs shall be paid; and every such person, firm, company or corporation shall be deemed guilty of a separate offense for each day of violation, disobedience, omission, neglect or refusal shall continue; provided, however, that said accumulated penalties recoverable in any one action shall not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars.

Board of Appeals. SECTION 18. Creation and Membership. A Board of Appeals is hereby established. The board shall be composed of five members appointed by the mayor for terms respectively of one year, two years and one for three years, appointments thereafter to be for three years each. One of the members of the board shall be an architect or structural engineer of not less than ten (10) years practical experience.

The chairman of the board shall be designated by the mayor. All members of the board shall serve without compensation. Meetings—Meetings of the board shall be held at least once a month and at such other times as the board may determine. The board shall have a fixed place of meeting and all meetings shall be open to the public. The board shall adopt its own rules of procedure and keep a record of its proceedings showing the vote of each member and the vote of each member upon each question considered. The presence of four members shall be necessary to constitute a quorum.

Appeal.—Appeal from the ruling of the city engineer concerning the enforcement of the provisions of this ordinance may be made to the Board of Appeals within such time as shall be prescribed by the Board by General Rule. Appealant shall file with the commissioner of buildings and with the board of appeals a notice of appeal specifying the grounds therefor. The city engineer shall forthwith transmit to the board all the papers constituting the record upon which the action appealed from was taken. The final disposition of any such appeal shall be in the form of a resolution, either reversing, modifying or affirming, wholly or partly, the decision or determination appealed from. The concurring vote of four (4) members of such board shall be necessary to pass a resolution.

Stay.—An appeal stays all proceedings in furtherance of the action appealed from, unless the city engineer, from whom the appeal is taken, certifies to the Board of Appeals, after the notice of appeal shall have been filed with him, that by reason of facts certified in the certificate the continuance of the proceedings is in the public interest or property, in which case proceedings shall not be stayed otherwise than by a restraining order which shall be granted by the board of appeals or by the circuit court, on application, on notice to the commissioner of buildings from whom the appeal is taken and on due cause shown.

FARMERS IN THIS COUNTY SEE NEED OF T. B. TESTING

Greenville Is Pioneer in Movement To Eradicate Tuberculosis

BY W. F. WINSEY. Sentiment in favor of obtaining a certificate of health from the state department of agriculture for each dairy herd in Outagamie county is growing rapidly and becoming active among local dairymen. It took its beginning in Greenville last summer when a few progressive farmers had their herds tested, as a matter of curiosity and experiment, for bovine tuberculosis. The reactors rounded up and the better specimens slaughtered and dissected at a public meeting as the best means of public investigation and public education in this line. One farmer who witnessed the demonstration informed the writer that his life-long habit of meat-eating was there and then broken up and that henceforth he would be a vegetarian. This man of course was foolish but each observer of the demonstration was transformed by what he saw into an agitator of officially certified live stock.

This sentiment for certified animals was strengthened and given a new impetus from several angles by speakers from the state department of agriculture at the farmers' institute held recently in Greenville. Here in substance are a few of the verbal thrusts for cleaning up dairy herds delivered by one of the speakers.

CAN BE TRANSMITTED. Bovine tuberculosis may be transmitted from one herd of cattle to another, from cattle to hogs, from cattle or hogs to poultry and from animals of any kind, in another form, to human beings.

The producers of poisonous dairy products and live stock infected with disease are morally responsible for the sufferings and fatalities they cause among innocent consumers.

The productive capacity of a herd of dairy cattle afflicted with tuberculosis decreases in direct proportion to the spread and virulence of the disease.

Live stock and dairy products officially tested and from certified areas command the highest prices in the market.

The state stands the expense of applying the tuberculin tests to dairy herds and has been indemnifying the owners for animals condemned. The legislative appropriations for this purpose are usually exhausted the first six months of the year.

Through contact, excretions, and feed, the germs of bovine tuberculosis are passed from one animal to another. Some of the most prolific mediums are milk, unfatiguerized skim milk and whey, fed to calves, hogs and poultry.

Dissemination from the talk of the Greenville speakers to the extent of a sentence to show the prevalence of tuberculosis among hogs and cattle, I may say that it is reported by the Wisconsin Farmer that during the last six months the Oscar Mayer packing structure and on property in the same ownership as the existing structure, at the time of the passage of this ordinance.

(4) The erection and use of a building or the use of a premises in any location to a public service corporation or for public utility purpose which the board admits reasonably necessary for the public convenience or welfare.

ON THE SCREEN

LORNA DOONE

Romance comes riding across the screen in picturesque seventeenth century garb in the sumptuous production of "Lorna Doone" which opened at the Elite theater yesterday for a 3 day engagement. From a novel that has been a favorite with three generations, Maurice Tourneur has produced a film that combines the beauty of an old world painting and the thrills of a modern melodrama.

Against the background of the Devonshire hills and moors, visited annually by hundreds of tourists who have shuddered over the deeds of the "Bloody Doones," the beautiful story of the captive "Lorna" is told. Characters of the familiar book enact with a realism, terrifying at times, the dramatic episodes that are known to every student of the English classics.

Contrasted with the early scenes of the wild moorland where peasants in quaint homespun and linsey live under the terrorized sway of the wild outlaw band are vivid glimpses from the magnificent court of King James where "Lorna" is taken in regal style after her rescue by the herculean "John Ridd" from the wicked "Doones." John's fight when he tears a hole through the thatched roof of the banquet hall where Lorna is being forced into marriage with Carver Doone and the big battle when the aroused peasantry burns the Doone village to the ground are two of the most dramatic episodes ever screened.

Madge Bellamy, the new Thomas H. Ince star, is an ideal "Lorna." She bears a striking resemblance to the romantic heroine for whose sake the handsome "John" risks so many perils. In the beautiful costumes which she wears in scenes at the court and Westminster Abbey she might well be mistaken for the model from whom the famous painting of "Lorna Doone" was made.

The fur, however, is unlike that of either the Sable or Marten, being shorter, harsher and lighter in tint than that of the Sables, the general color being a bright golden, hand some shade of yellow, or brownish yellow, quite uniform in tone on all parts of the body.

Kolinsky is made up natural or dyed. Mink color or much darker shades of brown. The best skins are found in Kola, Russia, while large numbers are obtained in China.

One of the many beautiful features of Kolinsky are the tails, which are used extensively in trimming capes, coats and stoles, either natural or when split and used flat.

Like all other furs of quality, Kolinsky is limited by cheaper and inferior furs of various kinds, such as rabbit, hare, etc.

It is therefore an important thing that you buy your Kolinsky cape or coat in a store of established reliability if you would get the fur of the little Asiatic animal and not the skins of its lowly imitators.

Another chance one takes in dealing with a furrier without reputation is that one must depend entirely upon the dealer's word, for he has no other way of knowing whether the fur in question is of the finer Russian grade, or of the poorer quality from China—if it should happen to be a genuine Kolinsky at all.

SEEK WAY TO HALT BIG YEARLY TOLL OF AUTO TRAGEDIES

Aroused Public Senses Necessity of Curbing Usual Hazards

Special to Post-Crescent. Chicago—An aroused American public is uniting to demand that the fearful slaughter in automobile accidents—mostly avoidable—be checked according to reports gathered from all sections of the country. Confronted by figures conservatively compiled, showing there will be more than 63,000 persons killed and injured in traffic accidents in 1923, national, state and community organizations are banding for protection of the public.

Education, simpler traffic rules and jail penalties for careless automobilists are the means through which the campaign is being carried on. The National Safety Council, Highway Education Board of the U. S. Bureau of Education, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, International Traffic Officers' Association, American Automobile Association, National Motorists' Association and other organizations are combining to spread the gospel of safety to both drivers and pedestrians.

Schools, police departments, automobile clubs and civic associations are joining in the campaign. Meantime, the cities, facing mounting death rates, are themselves taking steps to cut down their accidents.

CITIES START CAMPAIGN. New York has just created a bureau of public safety, headed by an advertising expert, to promote safety ideas.

Atlanta, Ga., named a special traffic commission to make recommendations after it was found that there are always 30 people in the Atlanta hospitals, suffering from auto accidents.

One-way thoroughfares are being established in a number of cities where the streets are narrow and crooked.

HEAVY PENALTIES. Traffic Judge Chas. J. Bartlett of Detroit has materially aided that city's safety by jailing speeders and suspending licenses of reckless drivers. In Michigan, a state law authorizes a charge of negligent homicide in fatalities caused by carelessness, and provides a penitentiary sentence.

In Cleveland, growth of auto fatalities this year was checked only when Traffic Judge Sawicki began sending offenders to serve work-house sentences. Recently Bartlett of Detroit sent speeders through the hospital and morgue to see auto accident victims. Judge Sawicki supplemented this by having convicted autoists attend the funeral of a child run down by another driver.

THE PEOPLE'S AID

To the People's Aid: We have a choice little kitchen garden of rich black dirt in the back end of our lot. The natural drainage was through a neighbor's lot to the gutter. The neighbor has filled in this lot and built a garage there.

Now my garden is converted into a frog pond after every rain and during the winter throws so that I cannot grow any berry bushes, and last summer I lost half of my vegetables by stagnant water which ran down on my garden from adjacent lots.

I would drain this garden but have no outlet and I don't like the idea of states are forming "auto vigilance committees," which will investigate all accidents and assist in eliminating irresponsible autoists.

ARREST JAYWALKERS. Arrest of careless pedestrians is now possible in a number of cities, and more are adopting the plan. The "jaywalker" who disregards traffic and crosses streets at will, as well as the autoist is responsible for many accidents involving pedestrians—and these constitute 90 per cent of all auto mishaps.

Doubtless use of highways is suggested by several experts as possible means of reducing traffic hazards, through prohibiting daytime use of these highways to certain types of trucks and similar conveyances. These experts would provide adequate lighting for the roadways, making them usable day and night.

With the whole nation aroused to the peril the automobile in careless hands has become, stringent measures to curb the speeder, drunken driver and the careless pedestrian are already being framed for many of the state legislatures that meet early in 1923.

When there is indigestion and the stomach does not seem to relish food it is a great mistake to starve or to use stimulants to force appetite. The best way is to use the stomach back to health by giving it the help it needs, the alkaline effect that arrests acidity, prevents gasiness, belching, sour risings, flatulence, pressure that seems to crowd the heart and such distresses due to indigestion. Chew one or two of the large, white tablets after eating, no water needed, and the stomach settles down to restful digestion, you feel eased and comfortable and you get the good of food. You now tackle pie, cheese, pickles, sausage or anything you like without fear as you have the means to prevent the distresses arising from indigestion. INVITE WORKERS TO "Y" TALK ON PAPERMAKING

The industrial council of the M. C. A. will hold an open meeting Thursday evening. An instructive talk on paper making will be given by a man who has been engaged in that business practically all his life. The talk will be followed by a discussion. The workman of any mill who desires to advance himself, or get a better knowledge of papermaking is invited to attend the meeting regardless of whether he is a member of the council.

ELKS IMPERIALS TAKE LEAD IN CITY BOWLING LEAGUE

Ten Pin Race Getting Hot As Only 2 Series Are Left On Schedule

Hopples Wieners Take Second Place For The First Time In Months But Runners-Up Are Only One Game Behind

CITY LEAGUE
Elks Imperials	38 19 .666
Hopples Wieners	37 20 .649
Arcades	34 23 .598
Hoffman's Const. Co.	31 26 .543

Elks 337	25 32 .438
Olympics	18 39 .315
F. O. E. 374	14 43 .243

After retaining first place in the Appleton City Bowling league for several months and with the race reaching "fever point" last week when they went into a tie with the Elks Imperials, the Hopples Wieners are now in second place as the result of Tuesday night's games. A neck-and-neck finish is expected from the first three teams who are a few games apart. The City league schedule will end March 27 with the rolling of the next two series.

The Imperials grabbed first place by one game as the result of taking two titles from the Olympic quintet in the series rolled on the Olympic floors. The Olympics' total was better than the Elks'.

WIENERS OUTBOWL GARDENS
The Wieners lost a chance of either regaining its lead or keeping the race tied when it dropped two to the Rainbow Gardens on the Arcade floors. The Wieners, however, outbowed the Gardens.

In the other hills the Arcades, shooting with the F. O. E. five on the latter home alleys, took two games and F. Fries, lead off man of the Arcades, was star of the evening for the entire league with a total of 600.

TAKE THREE STRAIGHTS
Though bowling only 2,467 pins, the Elks 337 had no trouble of taking three straight from the Hoffman Construction Co. pin smashers. Tuesday's games:

MILWAUKEE MAYOR IS BOWLER

MAYOR HOAN

Milwaukee—Even styles in mayors are changing. When national or sectional bowling meets open in a city it is customary for the mayor to don his silk hat, strut gingerly onto the alleys, and start things by rolling a ball into the gutter. Not so with Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee. He plans to do more than roll one ball in the big American Bowling Congress meet which started here March 10—he figures on being a contender for the title and will bowl a full set of three games, and has been training faithfully every day.

Mayor Hoan will have a team of city hall employees in the meet.

Fox River Paper Quint Captures Factory Flag

Sigmas Are Beaten In Final Postponed Game By 14 To 11 Score And Quadruple Tie For First Place Is Avoided

BOWLING
Battling a close battle all the way, the Fox River Paper Co. quintet defeated the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity team, 14 to 11, and captured the championship of the Interfactory Basketball league in the final postponed game of the schedule in the "Y" gym. Dunn, playing forward for the Fox River, was first to score. The teams sawsawed with the first half ending 6 to 6. The Foxes played a superior guarding game while the Sigmas led in the passing department. Because a loss by the Fox River would have resulted in a quadruple tie for first place and it would have necessitated an elimination contest, the gallery was packed with members and followers of the entire caging wheel. The champion Fox River team as it played Tuesday night was made up of Rundhammer and Dunn, forwards; Knause, center; Radtke and Bates, guards.

The Sigma lineup was made up of Collins and Packard, forwards; Mitchell, center; D. Hunting and W. Hunting, guards.

SINGLE CHANGE IN A. B. C. TOURNAMENT
By Associated Press
Milwaukee—Tuesday night's play in the American Bowling congress tournament was mediocre, only two teams securing enough pins to get a berth in the five leaders. Louis Hoffman Co. Milwaukee, rolled into fifth place when they turned in games of 838, 896 and 926 for a total of 2,660. F. Drolshagen, anchor man on the team, was the big gun, shooting games of 215, 222 and 195 for a total of 630, which is also the highest individual three game total rolled in the meet.

The Plankinton Glove No. 1 team still holds the lead with 2,750. Among the teams that will bowl Wednesday are a full squad of Milwaukee Elks teams, numbering 28, and when they take over the drives, it is more than likely that some of the five leaders will find themselves out in the cold. The leaders, all Milwaukee teams are:

Franklin Glove No. 1, 2,760.
Ranger Shoe Repair, 2,721.
Sale-A-Ways, 2,670.
Wisconsin Hotel No. 1, 2,645.
Louis Hoffman Co., 2,660.

Wisconsin University basketballers finished the season in a tie with Iowa. While the fans and the critics of the midwestern were lauding the formers for winning another conference race, the Badgers kept on plugging and finally wound up in a tie with the highly advertised Hawkeyes. Coach Meenwell developed a great basketball team—one of the greatest in history.

Mark up another victory for Louis Firpo, the South American contender for the heavyweight championship. Bill Brennan bumped into a jolt on the chin delivered by the pride of Argentina and it was all over the shouting. The curtain dropped in the twelfth frame of their encounter in Gotham. Firpo won a clean cut battle. There was little love lost between the pair and they both were pretty well smashed up.

Sheboygan Kidding Itself Into Honors Of Valley Basketball Race

"Appleton High School Entitled To Championship Not Chair City," Says Official Denying Reports

"Appleton is entitled to the Fox River Valley High Schools Athletic conference basketball title, not Sheboygan." This statement was made Tuesday afternoon over the telephone by P. F. Neversman, Marinette, of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, following the Post-Crescent's efforts to verify to report published in Milwaukee and Sheboygan newspapers that the board of control of the interscholastic association had reversed its decision and declared Konrad Testwuide, Sheboygan high school caging star, eligible.

The report was not only termed as "bunk" but Mr. Neversman emphatically made it clear that Testwuide is ineligible and Sheboygan had no right to claim the title and that all games participated in by Testwuide were declared forfeited.

MIKUP DUE TO LETTER
Mr. Neversman explained that the "mixup" probably resulted from a letter sent to Sheboygan by F. O. Barnes, Madison, who with V. G. Barnes, Madison, make up the balance of the board. Mr. Holt wrote that although it was necessary to declare Testwuide ineligible because he did not have the proper number of units in English, the victories of Sheboygan in the valley conference should stand in favor of the Chair City. Mr. Neversman said that the board had convincing proof that the Sheboygan player was ineligible.

The fact that Testwuide was not allowed to play in the Two Rivers basketball district tourney is an evidence that the board didn't change its decision. Mr. Neversman declared.

HALT CONTRADICTIONS SELF
"I do not understand how Mr. Holt can agree upon the fact that Sheboygan used an ineligible player and at the same time consent to give Sheboygan the victories which she won with the assistance of an ineligible man," said Mr. Neversman. "I am taking up the matter with him in a letter today, and as soon as we have thrashed this thing out there will be an official statement. Mr. Barnes, I am sure will coincide with me."

Appleton high school which has never made a claim against Sheboygan is naturally interested in the squabble. The Fond du Lac Commonwealth has a silver cup ready for the official winners. It had the trophy packed for shipment to Sheboygan but the ruling against Testwuide forced the newspaper to hold it back. The commonwealth is waiting for a written decision from the board of control before it will send the trophy to Appleton. Al Mayer, sporting editor, declared Wednesday.

Mystery Of Broken Jaw Is Unsolved

Milwaukee—Jack Zwick has cancelled his bout with Roy Conley at Green Bay Friday night. Jack's eye, cut in training, is not in shape. Harry Levitas, who is promoting the show, probably will use Jack Schoendorf in Zwick's place.

The mystery of the broken jaw. That may be the title of this story or of any other story that is going rounds about the injury or alleged injury suffered by Jack Zwick, Kaukauna, in Milwaukee while training for the fight Friday night with Roy Conley.

Efforts here to verify the telephone call received by Elmer Johnston of the city from Milwaukee that Zwick's jaw was broken by Nuss and that Zwick is in a hospital, have failed thus far. Patsy Callahan, Zwick's manager, left his Menasha home hurriedly Tuesday noon for Milwaukee, presumably to see Zwick and what the trouble was.

At Green Bay Harry Levitas who is promoting the battle for Friday also left for Milwaukee, to get some one to replace Zwick or to find out what the trouble is, according to Mrs. Levitas who answered the long distance call.

MERCHANT FIVE TO PLAY NEW LONDON

Hortonville—What promises to be one of the most interesting basketball games of the season will be played at the auditorium Thursday evening between the New London Athletic five and the local Merchants. This same New London team triumphed the Merchants last year and the boys are going to work hard to keep them from repeating the performance this year. A preliminary game will be played between the high school girls and a pickup team of old-time basketball players about town.

HIGH LUTHERAN BOWLERS PRESENTED WITH PRIZES

John Meyer, 1117 Oneida-st, won the prize for the highest score rolled last week in the bowling tournament of the Lutheran Aid Bowling association. He rolled 230 in one of his games, entitling him to a silk shirt donated by a local clothing firm.

The women's prize, a pair of silk stockings, was won by Miss Martha Koepke, who topped the women's list for the week with a score of 171.

Prizes again are being offered this week to high scorers.

Washington—Federal and state laws which would fix minimum wage to be received by women and children after a 40-hour labor law prescribes working conditions were under attack Wednesday in the Supreme court.

While the two cases before the court arose under an act of congress relating to the District of Columbia, the states which have minimum wage laws recognized that the life of such legislation was at stake and six of the nine justices, Kansas, New York, Oregon, Washington and Wisconsin obtained permission as friends of the court to file briefs and participate in the oral arguments. The two cases were brought before the Children's hospital and Willie Lyons against minimum age board challenging the constitutionality of the law of Oregon it abridged the freedom of contract personal services and was in part legislative power.

C. OF C. ARMY GETS 347 MEMBERSHIPS

more enthusiastic than any of the previous ones and the workers started out with the determination to get more memberships on Wednesday than they did on Tuesday. They started off in pairs shortly after 9:30 to visit the prospects whose cards they held, and expected to work all morning seeing those whom they had not been able to reach on the first day and seeing some of the others again.

At the noon meeting at Hotel Appleton on Wednesday, each worker made a short speech telling of his experiences in the campaign. The meetings were in charge of Col. J. P. Frank, who is head of the entire force of workers. J. P. Ballantyne, who has been ill for several days, was present at both meetings, but James E. Green has returned to Appleton to take up the work of campaign manager until Mr. Ballantyne has recovered sufficiently to resume his work.

The reports of captains of teams showed on Tuesday evening that in R. E. Carnecross' division Gustave Keller reported 4 memberships, Emil Walther, 12; Gerald Galpin, 3; Rev. J. L. Menzner, 1; C. E. Mullen, 5; in William Commentz's division, George Dume reported 8, George F. Werner, 25; W. E. Smith, 7; H. P. Buck, 4; and William Falahack 12. In A. K. Ellis' division, H. A. DeBauter reported 15 John Diddrich, 31; L. J. Marshall, 9; H. A. Schlitz, 6 and Dr. E. H. Brooks, 5. In Mayor Reuter's division, John Haug, Jr., reported 5; Dr. William Madison, 2; Lee C. Rasey, 8; Charles Hopfensperger, 8 and Walter Jover, 3.

Reports are made by the captains to the major and then to the colonel. Each worker in the campaign reports to his captain. Most of the teams include six or more workers besides the captain.

Another luncheon will be given to the workers. The final reports of the campaign will be made at the Success dinner at Conway hotel on Friday evening. The goal which has been set for the memberships is 300.

Cheer Lepers With Programs By Radiophone

By Associated Press

San Juan, Porto Rico—Cabras island, the home of Porto Rico's leper colony, after years of dreary days and silent nights, can now listen to the voices of the world. A radio receiving set has just been installed there, within a few days a loud speaker will be attached, and 36 new radio fans will be enchanted with the marvels of science—and occasionally, of course, disgusted with the perverseness of static. The radio set was made possible by an anonymous gift of $100 which came from New York, to which were added local contributions.

Probably not since its invention has the setting up of a radio set been watched by a more interested group of spectators than that which followed the movements of the Rev. Charles B. Bare and two employees of the Porto Rico Telephone company as they installed the instrument. Not a leper in the colony was without a look of interest and enthusiasm. Life on a barren, shadowed reef on which the hot sun's rays beat fiercely, and against which the surf pounds ceaselessly, is not conducive to an exuberant display of feeling.

LEPERS ARE LONELY

"When the loud speaker comes you will be able to hear concerts, music and singing in San Juan, in Havana and in the big cities of the United States," they were told. There was a chorus of "Magnifico" and "que bueno," and one man remarked—"It was meant for such exiles as we are."

For, near as they are to San Juan, the lepers regard their isolation as exile. "Somos pobres desterrados," ("We are poor exiles") they tell you. They complain of the loneliness of their lives more than they do of the dreary life. Even the prospect of hearing nightly the strains of famous orchestras and the words of eloquent speakers does not reconcile them to their lot.

They hate the glaring sunlight, for it pains their eyes. They hate the salt and misty night air, for they aggravate their sufferings. They hate the dreary darkness of night, relieved by nothing but little oil lamps. "Help! to get us away from here," they urge the visitor.

The radio concerts will be heard in the club house of the Philanthropic Society of Cabras island. The club house is rather meagerly furnished, a broken victrola, a rather unsteady table, and some benches and chairs. Superintendent Rubin has promised to see that everyone has a seat—and so on nights when Pittsburgh and Havana "speak out clear and bold" the exiles of Cabras will be listening.

Alaska, according to conflicting advertising, is where they shovel the snow off the lawn to cut the grass.

It is getting so that when a bootlegger is arrested, he raises Cain if it makes him get home late for supper.

It is cheaper to move than to keep up with the neighbors.
